

CRUISERS OFF TO MANAGUA

DIXIE SHARING
SUB-ZERO WAVE
WITH CHICAGOBit Warmer Today, Is Forecast.

In modified form the cold wave that has held the temperature near zero for the last three days will hang on in Chicago until tomorrow night, it was indicated last night in the official weather forecast.

Early yesterday morning the temperature fell to an official minimum of 6 below zero. Unofficial thermometers in the suburbs showed marks of 17 and 13 below. Eight deaths were added to those already attributed wholly or in part to the cold, raising the toll to twenty-eight.

Still Below Normal Today.

The forecast, issued at 7 p. m., when the mercury was at 1 above, stated that it would be mostly fair today and that it would be not quite so cold, but still far below normal.

Official reports showed that the entire country east of the Rocky mountains was in the grip of the severest weather of the winter. A peculiar feature was that the sunny south was colder than bleak New England. At some southern points the temperatures were the lowest on record.

One of these was Little Rock, Ark., where the mark was 5 above. Never before in the forty-seven years of weather recording there had the reading been so low. At Atlanta 2 above was the lowest, since 1871. As a contrast Boston, with a minimum of 14 above, and New York, with 10 above, presented the coldest days of the present winter.

Schools were closed at Greenville, S. C., and Americus, Ga., when temperatures fell respectively to 5 and 10 above zero. At Charlotte, N. C., a Negro was reported to have frozen to death.

Four Below at Asheville.

Hickersonville, N. C., suffered in a temperature of 7 below, one degree lower than Chicago. At Asheville, N. C., the mercury fell to 4 below, at Louisville 3 below, at Kingsport, Tenn., 2 below, and at Bristol Tenn., to 2 below.

The cold was blamed for a train wreck near Atlanta, in which three persons were killed and twelve injured, and for another smashup at Mount Vernon, Ill., in which a locomotive engineer was killed.

Near Knoxville, Tenn., a party of soldiers carrying thermometers climbed Mount Le Conte. On their return they announced that the temperature at the top was 20 below zero, which made that and Havre, Mont., equal contenders for the coldest spot in the United States at 1 o'clock last night.

At Waaco, Tex., the lowest temperature was 11 above. At Tampa and Jacksonville, Fla., it was below freezing.

As a contrast the Pacific coast was having midsummer weather.

Colder Downstate.

Downstate Illinois had temperatures lower than Chicago. Springfield's worst was 34 degrees below. Bloomington's 13 below broke a record that had stood since 1915. St. Louis reported ten deaths due to the cold, Cleveland and New York three each.

Milwaukee's minimum was 5 below. Wausau, Wis., had a low of minus 15. At La Crosse it was 14 below and at Madison 10 below. In Kansas the extreme cold had relaxed slightly, but more snow was falling there and in northern Oklahoma. A fresh cold wave was predicted for Wyoming and Idaho.

Of the Chicago suburbs, Bellwood reported the lowest unofficial reading, minus 15. Mundelein claimed 17 below, Ploemoor and Waukegan 15 below. Other suburban marks, all under zero, were: Aurora, 11; Berwyn, 7; Chicago Heights, 10; Cicero, 8; Des Plaines, 11; Evanston, Elgin, Gary, Glenview, Highland Park, 9; Joliet, 10; La Grange, 7; Maywood, 10; Oak Park, 8; River Forest, 10; Wheaton and Niles Center, 8.

Deaths Attributed to Cold.

Deaths with the cold as a supposed contributory factor included those of Mrs. Helen Nowicki, 57, of 74 Ayer court, who was found dead in bed; A. J. Black, 35, of 123 East 1st street, who collapsed at 14th street and Princeton avenue. Other victims were James Clark, colored, 23, of 5622 South Park avenue; William Hunter, 55, of 29 South Oak avenue, Brookfield; Thomas Rogers, 40, of 132 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park; and Philip G. Gies, 64, of the Great Northern hotel, near 94, of the Great Northern hotel.

Mrs. Anna Sawyer, 65, of 1824 South Central park avenue, died suddenly at home street and Jackson boulevard. William Griese, 66, 4225 North Melrose avenue, a street car conductor, dropped dead while walking with his wife and two children.

Minette Henderson, 2 months old, was smothered to death in bed at her parents' home, 5748 South Washburn avenue.

CHICAGO DANCER
DEAD IN PARIS;
WORLD FAMOUS

Queen Mourns "La Belle Loie" Fuller.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Jan. 2.—A famed Chicago contribution to the international theatre, who rose from a farmland suburb to be an intimate of European queens and a friend of artists and literary people of the two hemispheres, died early this morning in her suite at the Plaza Athenee hotel. It was Loie Fuller, known to France as "La Belle Loie."

The dancer passed away surrounded by a trace of her one time glory. In the last hours Queen Marie of Roumania, from whom she had been somewhat estranged during the queen's recent tour of America, sent her this last message:

"Good-by, Loie, 'La Belle Loie,' my best beloved. MARIE"

Dance Pupils at Bedside.

Around her bedside gathered the pupils of her famous dancing school in Paris. The French press gives columns of front page space in sympathetic farewell. The immediate cause of her death was bronchial pneumonia, to which she fell victim after a two months' illness brought on by pneumonia poisoning last October.

The body will be cremated on Wednesday. The ashes will be placed in the columbarium of the historic Pere Lachaise cemetery. This is according to Miss Fuller's wishes, for she transferred her affections completely to France since her disillusionments in connection with Queen Marie's tour of the United States.

Introduced Light Into Art.

"La Belle Loie," as every Frenchman of middle age knew her, was 58. Her bright star first rose in the horizon of the French stage in 1893 when she came here and made her debut in the Folies Bergere in the "Fire Dance."

Painters, poets, and novelists, including the great Anatole France and the sculptor, Rodin, flocked to the then dowdy music hall and recognized that the American girl had brought something new into the world of the dance. For Loie's whole philosophy of the dance, which she had developed in the thirty years since, was based on light.

She considered the girl dancers of her school not as dancers, but as instruments in the great orchestra of light, producing with the aid of billowing veils, lovely compositions that astonished the world. Critics say that Miss Fuller's ideas were responsible for all the modern stage lighting. Colored ribbons and fans giving fire effects, as well as half the stunts now common property in the music halls, were her inventions.

HISTORY OF THE DANCER.

Loie Fuller was born 15 years ago in the barroom of a tavern in the northwest corner of what now is Hinsdale, on the Ogden avenue-Naperville road, about sixteen miles west of Chicago. Fuller was named after her mother's name. Her parents' home really was in the present Lombard neighborhood, but the intense cold of January, 1870 (40 below), caused her father to seek a warmer abode amid relatives for the coming of the stark.

When Loie was 2 years old she recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb" at a Sunday school in Chicago. She made a sort of debut at the age of 2½ years when, acting on impulse, she got up in the Chicago Progressive Lyceum and made an impromptu address. She sang and played the piano at the age of 5 and at 6 was reading Shakespeare. When still in her teens she became a professional temperance lecturer and is said to have introduced the "horrible example" method of appeal. Wherever she went, it is said, she would find the town drunkard and exhibit him on her stage that night as a warning to all drinkers.

Becomes an Actress.

Loie gave up lecturing after a year of it and determined to become an actress. She went barnstorming in Shakespearean plays until, finding herself back in Chicago with $200 and one dress, she decided to become a singer. She spent all her money on her voice and for some time faced real poverty.

She was finally engaged by J. M. Hill to sing and act in Hooley's Opera house.

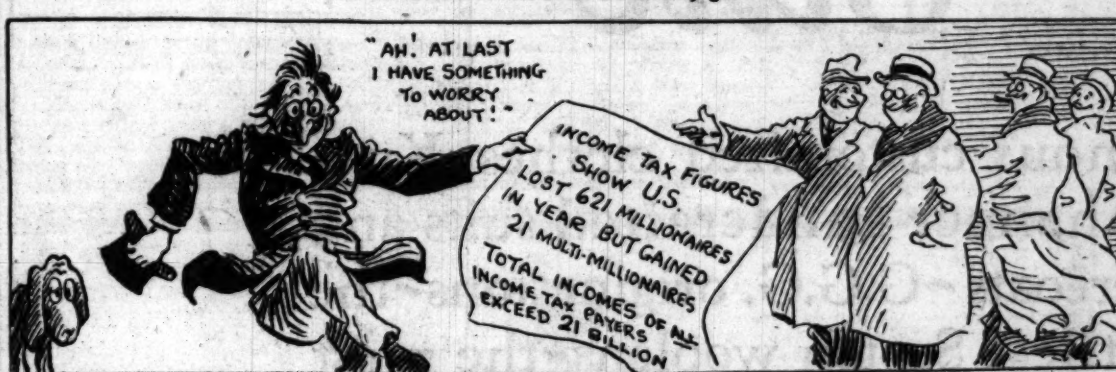

Later she went to New York seeking wider fields. After a year trying to get work she finally joined Nat Goodwin in the old burlesque, "Little Jack Sheppard." She was successful

Gaming Club,
Hotel Bombed
in Vice War

New Year's resolutions of the gangsters seeking to control Chicago's $75,000,000 a year vice and gambling business apparently included one for bigger and better bombs.

Two places reputedly owned and controlled by the Skidmore-Zuta-Bertsche syndicate were the targets in the last outbreak of the bombers. The latest was that of the Forest club, a gambling house at 7214 Circle avenue, Forest Park. Early this morning the two story brick structure was rent by a terrific explosion which wrecked the entire front of the place, causing damage estimated at $10,000.

Both floors of the building were used for gambling rooms, according to the Forest Park police. The resort was just across the line from Oak Park and neighbors and the police say it has been doing a big business nightly.

West Side Hotel Bombed.

The bombing of the club followed a blast early yesterday morning in the Newport hotel at 2351 West Madison street, long known as a vice resort belonging to the Skidmore faction. There, as at the club, a dynamite bomb was used and the place was practically demolished with a loss estimated at $12,000. Several nearby buildings were damaged.

Hitherto black powder bombs have been the medium of the gangsters, and the nature of the warnings. The fact that dynamite was used in the two latest bombings, causing much heavier damage, is taken to mean that the syndicate's enemies, who made it known long ago through the underworld that Zuta at least was to be eliminated, are determined to see that he quits levying tribute on vice and gambling resorts.

Other Bombings Recently.

Several other houses on the west side owned by the same organization were bombed recently. At this time it was suspected by the police that Alphonse Capone and his gang were the instigators. The new dynamite campaign, however, is attributed to another gang, recently aspiring to power.

This crew, it is said, is composed of former safebreakers and robbers. Their first venture was as bombmakers for the trade; they'd make and throw bombs for any one at a price. Now their ambitions have grown and it is believed that they are striving to rival both the Capone and the Bertsche-Zuta-Skidmore parties.

Among the places damaged by the Newport bomb were the clothing store of F. H. Bartholomew, 2352 West Madison street; the barber shop of Jack Glaser at 2351; the tailoring establishment of Joseph Oleinick at 2347; the jewelry store of Joseph Stern at 2345; and the following concerns on the opposite side of the street: The Schroeder dentist at 2353, the Hursen undertaker rooms at 2345, and the West Town State bank at 2354.

Package Is Tossed in.

Joseph [Butch] Robin, manager of the hotel, said that he was sitting in the office at the head of the steps when he saw two well dressed men throw over the lobby door and toss in a package. It was about 12x18 inches and it was smoking.

"I grabbed a pail of water and threw it on the package," he said. "Then, as it kept on smoking, I poured another bucketful on it. I got scared and ran through the house, shouting to everybody to get out."

A dozen women and nearly as many men, it was reported, fled out the rear. The stairs in front were destroyed. The hotel is in the Warren avenue district. In the last week there have been two murders in the territory, those of Frank Noonan, owner of a saloon at 2352 West Lake street, and of Frank [Butch] Carpenter, a lieutenant of Zuta. Chief of Police Hughes, it is said, has ordered Capt. Christensen to make a personal report, explaining why there is so much disorder.

KILL DRY AGENT AS HE TAKES COAL OF BOOTLEGGER

South St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Weeley A. Fraser, of St. Paul, a federal prohibition agent, was shot to death today while removing confiscated coal from a house that had been weeks ago. Guloj Nickolich, a butcher of South St. Paul, was arrested and admitted having killed Fraser. The agent had been seized by federal agents when the house, owned by Nickolich, was raided.

Feeds Robin in His Yard as It Hops to Keep Warm

William S. Miller, vice president of the Northern Trust company, reported to THE TRIBUNE yesterday that he saw a robin on the second day of the new year, despite the near zero temperature. Mr. Miller says the feathered visitor hopped about on the snow in the yard of his home at 647 Spruce street, Winnetka, and ate hungrily when he fed it.

Charles Kittle,
Sears Roebuck
President, Dies

Charles Morgan Kittle, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and former senior vice president of the Illinois Central, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital of septic poisoning which set in following an emergency operation for gall stones on Christmas day. He was 47 years old.

Apparently in excellent health, Mr. Kittle suffered an acute attack Christmas morning, and Dr. L. L. McArthur ordered an immediate operation. Mr. Kittle rallied and improved steadily until Sunday morning when infection developed. The end came at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. His wife, Mrs. Jane Dahney Kittle, was at his bedside. Stated as Water Boy.

At the age of 14, water boy for a railroad section gang, at 36 vice president of the Illinois Central railroad, and at 44 chief executive of the Sears, Roebuck company, the story of Mr. Kittle's success belongs in the romantic chronicles of American business men who have won their way from inauspicious beginnings.

In 1924 when Julius Rosenwald decided to retire from the presidency of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and to become chairman of the board of directors, he brought in Mr. Kittle to succeed him as president. He had observed Mr. Kittle's rise through the maintenance of way, mechanical, accounting and transportation departments of the Illinois Central; his promotion to the position of general freight claim agent, then as assistant to the president, and finally to the senior vice presidency. Although Mr. Kittle was only 44 years old at the time, Mr. Rosenwald was impressed with his executive ability.

Stock Value Jumps.

Under Mr. Kittle's administration the market value of Sears-Roebuck stock has doubled in value.

Mr. Rosenwald was one of the many of Mr. Kittle's associates who visited the Kittle home at 209 Lake Shore drive yesterday.

Charles H. Markham, chairman of the Illinois Central board, is on his way from California to attend the funeral, which will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Kittle's only son, Charles Markham Kittle, 5 years old, is a namesake of Mr. Markham. The services will be held at the Fourth Presbyterian church, the Rev. H. A. Balzell officiating. Interment will be in Rosehill.

Pallbearers Are Named.

Former associates of Mr. Kittle from the Illinois Central railroad and from Sears, Roebuck & Co. will be the active pallbearers. They are: Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, Max Adler, Otto C. Doering, Joseph E. Buettner, R. E. Clement, Victor V. Boatner, A. E. Cliff, and J. L. Beven.

The honorary pallbearers are: Julius Rosenwald, Edmond A. Russell, Lester Rosenwald, A. C. Mearns, C. H. Markham, Burton W. Mudge, L. A. Dorn, Robert H. Mann, Albert C. Munn, Judge W. D. country near Quilali is rugged, mountainous, and bush covered.

Marines state the bandits can remain hidden ten feet from the trail and when attacked and repulsed can separate into the bush and flee to safety. It is difficult to arrange air-ship cooperation, as the bush hides the bandits.

It is the general opinion of those in charge that it will require a large force of United States marines to terminate the bandit movement. Although equipped by the Liberals, who led the recent revolt in Nicaragua, Gen. Sandino still has a large following among the people.

Capt. Richard Livingston of Philadelphia, who was wounded in the fight, will be able to return to duty in three weeks.

Names of additional wounded in Friday's battle were made public here today. They follow:

Sergeant Otto W. Koss of Washington and Scott Fields of Oranville, S. C. Corps. John L. Mell of Dakota City, Ia., and Anthony L. Nell of Detroit; First Class Privates Rawley W. Brandenburg of Louisville, Thomas F. Dowd of Orange, N. J.; Harry M. Blanchard of Violet, La.; Jason Little of Taylorville, N. C.; Arthur L. Fitzpatrick of Colorado Springs; Albert H. Newberger of Pine Lawn, Mo.; Clifford G. Endress of Youngstown, O.; William M. Merchant of Newberry, S. C.; Paul M. Huska of Torrington, Conn.; Glenn Smith of Warren, O., and Edgar B. Walker of Clay, Kan.

U. S. to Send 500 Marines.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(Special.)—Marine reinforcements numbering probably 500 men are to be sent to Nicaragua within the next few days to aid in the campaign to stamp out widespread banditry in the jungles and mountain country along the Honduras border, where the forces of Gen. Sandino, the guerrilla leader, are entrenched.

The killing of five marines and the wounding of twenty-three last Friday in the skirmish between marines and Sandino forces have convinced navy officials of the wisdom of keeping at least 2,000 marines in Nicaragua until the entire country is pacified.

Following the truce arranged last summer by Col. Henry L. Simson, the personal peace representative of President Coolidge, the American forces were gradually reduced from a strength approximating 3,000 to about 1,500. Officials had hoped to reduce this number to 1,000, but, with the increased activity by Gen. Sandino in the northwest, these plans were changed. Suggestions for sending additional men to Nicaragua have been under contemplation for several days.

Also Sending Replacements.

As many of the marines now in Nicaragua are due for return to this country, the raising of the American forces to a strength of 2,000 would call for sending more than 500 men. There are at present 150 marines en route as replacements and 150 more have been ordered to sail from New York on the Chateau Thierry. In view of the recent fighting it is expected some of the marines will be kept on duty who normally would have been sent home on the arrival of replacements.

It is assumed here that the supplies reaching Gen. Sandino came through Honduras. Considerable ammunition was obtained by the bandits when they captured the American owned San Albino mines. Both the northwestern region of Nicaragua and the adjacent Honduran country have been bandit strongholds for years, it is said here.

RICH CHICAGOAN ROBBED, SLAIN ON WEST COAST

Exhumation of the body of a man found murdered on Nov. 27 on a beach near San Francisco, Cal., and subsequently buried in a potter's field will take place in that city today. It was learned last night after relatives here had been informed that he is Alfred W. Grotefeld, 52, wealthy member of the Chicago commission firm of John M. Train & Co.

The identification was established first by means of a gold watch found near the body and was substantiated by a description of Grotefeld, who has been missing about six weeks. When found the body was clad only in underwear and the skull had been crushed. "We last heard from Mr. Grotefeld at Portland, Ore., about seven weeks ago," asserted John M. Train, 4418 North Maplewood avenue, the partner of Grotefeld. "He was bound for California, and had about $7,000 in cash with him. I'm sure he was murdered and robbed of this sum. He was the buyer for our firm and spent much of his time on the west coast."

Mr. Grotefeld has a number of relatives in Chicago, among them the Rev. William Grotefeld, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical church in Downers Grove. He was also a brother of Mrs. Alvina Grotefeld Steinhouse, who was found dead in 1920 under mysterious circumstances in a swamp near Tampa, Fla. Her husband, Ernest Ewald Steinhouse, whom she had married three months before, was held when he attributed her death to suicide, but was later released. Another brother, August Grotefeld, lives at 4025 North Hermitage avenue.

Haiti 124 Years Old; Says U. S. Brought It Liberty

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Jan. 2.—(AP)—On the occasion of the 124th anniversary President Louis Borno today issued a proclamation declaring that never before had such liberty, humanity, security, and progress existed in Haiti. He attributed conditions to the treaty of amity with the United States. After a grand mass at the cathedral President Borno laid wreaths at the tombs of the Haitian independence heroes, Petion and Desalines.

BELIEVE GRAYSON PLANE FELL INTO SEA OFF CAPE COD

Schooner's Officers Heard Motors, Then Splash.

Portland, Me., Jan. 2.—(AP)—The splash of what was believed to be an airplane into the sea off Cape Cod, heard by officers and crew of the schooner Rose Ann Belliveau in the vicinity of the Cape, was the first of a series of sounds that identified the plane as that of the late Capt. R. V. Grayson.

Capt. R. V. Grayson of the schooner reported here today that he was called on deck during a howling northwest gale shortly after 7:30 o'clock on the night of Dec. 23, when his vessel was 13 miles northwest of Nauset beach light on Cape Cod. He said he first distinguished faint sounds that he identified as those of airplane motors. These sounds came to an abrupt ending within ten minutes when a heavy splash was heard.

Capt. Grayson said that while only a splash could be heard, he believed the plane was attempting to "hang around" with the Belliveau, a Nova Scotia three-master on its way to Portland. Prior to his arrival here yesterday he had put into port at Salem, Mass., where the Belliveau remained for five days before proceeding.

Meantime the story remained untold, it being the apparent belief of the schooner's officers that they had no important facts directly bearing on the Dawn.

This story of the Dawn's probable fate apparently confirms the report made by Jerome Knowles, wireless operator aboard the steamer Oakley L. Alexander, when the ship docked here Dec. 30.

Knowles said that at 7:30 o'clock on the night of Dec. 23, as the Alexander was passing Cape Cod, he heard a radio message requesting the Chatham station for a compass bearing. A few minutes later came through the air the words, "Plane down."

Rookie Policeman Saves Man from Icy Waters

New York, Jan. 2.—(Special).—By a plunge into the icy waters of Erie basin at Columbia street, Brooklyn, Patrolman Veto Ferra, a rookie policeman, today rescued William McAndrews, though he dived a second time, Ferra was unable to save John Parks.

WINS DIVORCE

MRS. HENRY MASON DAY.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Henry Mason Day, wife of Harry Sinclair's aide, who figured prominently in the news during the recent Fall-Sinclair trial in Washington, was granted a divorce today. Mrs. Day was formerly Elizabeth de Seiding, prominent in New York, Washington, and continental society. She married the oil man in Brooklyn on Oct. 8, 1910.

WOODED BY FALSE STORY OF CASTLE, BRIDE CHARGES

Miss Madge Johnson, formerly of Marquette, Ill., was married last July to Lee La Argo, whom she describes as a counselor to hotels and restaurants. On the grounds that he deceived her before and after marriage, she and her attorneys, Benjamin B. Davis, are planning to file suit for separate maintenance today.

In his wedding, according to the declaration, La Argo spoke of his ancestral castle in Italy and also claimed that he had accompanied Col. Theodore Roosevelt on his hunting trip to Africa. The wife also asserts he has been unfaithful and charges that on Oct. 8 he drew a knife and threatened to kill her.

MRS. LINDBERGH REACHES HOME SAFELY IN PLANE

Ends Round Trip Flight to Mexico City.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 2.—Smiling happily despite the trying experiences of the last three days when snow and storm twice forced the monoplane in which she was a passenger to earth, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh stepped from the ship's cabin at the Ford airport here this afternoon, completing an epochal round trip flight to the capital city of Mexico.

Rest, Then Back to School.

The giant plane dropped gently to the landing field to taxi into the hangar from which the flight started two weeks ago. Mrs. Lindbergh, apparently unaffected by her holiday trip by air to visit her famous son, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, in Mexico City, left the airport quietly in an automobile to rest before returning to her tasks as a teacher at the Cass Technical High school here.

Included in the party were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stout, Mrs. John A. Collins, Stanley Copeland, Ford representative in Mexico; Harry Brooks, pilot, and Harry L. Russell, mechanic.

Plane Forced Down Twice.

The party spent last night at Edwardsburg, Mich., where Brooks was forced to bring the plane down last evening when a severe sleet and snow storm made further flight dangerous. With the assistance of farmers a path was cleared across the snow covered field today and the plane was flown to Sturgis, Mich. At Sturgis Mrs. Lindbergh and the other passengers again climbed aboard the plane to complete the short hop here without incident.

Saturday evening a storm had forced the plane down near Chicago, but without injury to the plane or passengers.

Lindy 'Drops In' on Honduras Today on Good Will Tour

SAN SALVADOR, Salvador, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has under consideration an extension of his Central American tour to include Colombia and Venezuela, but will not make a decision until he reaches Panama. The flyer today said he had made no definite plans in this respect, but admitted they were under consideration.

Receptions and official ceremonies took up Col. Lindbergh's time today. President Romero Boscque planned a commemorative gold medal upon him at a reception at the national palace. Members of the cabinet, the diplomatic and consular corps, and other high public officials were present at these ceremonies.

Crowds Line Streets.

On the way to the palace the streets were lined with some 10,000 persons who flocked to view the private citizen who is honored here as a special ambassador of the United States. News and news reel photographers had their cameras trained on him at points all along the route to get every detail of his progress. Overhead a squadron of Salvadoran airplanes performed evolutions in friendly demonstration for the visiting flyer.

Other entertainments in his honor today were at the American legation and the San Salvador Country club. Col. Lindbergh expects to hop off tomorrow morning between 11 and 12 o'clock for Tegucigalpa, Honduras, where he will be only a short distance from the Nicaraguan border. [Fighting between American marines and Nicaraguan rebels of the last few days.]

to just over the border and Col. Lindbergh probably will fly almost directly over the scene of the fighting when he leaves Tegucigalpa for Managua, probably Thursday.

Favors Air Mail Service.

Col. Lindbergh said he was disappointed in not seeing much of the beautiful mountain scenery on the way here from Belize, British Honduras, because of a fog that blanketed it. Atmospheric conditions are favorable for a Central American aerial mail service, however, in the opinion of the flyer, who urged its inauguration.

He commented on the fact that Salvador is well cultivated and the inhabitants industrious. He said he was greatly pleased with San Salvador, which he found more thickly populated than he expected. He expressed gratitude for kindness extended to him by the Salvadoran government and populace. The newspapers are full of eulogistic articles about him.

Alaska Invites Lindy.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has been invited to make a good will air tour of Alaska next summer. In a telegram sent the aviator by the pioneers of Alaska, it was suggested he could fly from New York across Canada to Whitehorse and Dawson, Y. T., and thence to Fairbanks, Alaska, where the tour of Alaskan communities would begin. With the aid of the territorial government, nearly fifty landing fields have been established in Alaska and several commercial air lines are in operation.

New York Sun Buys Site of First Stewart Store

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The building at 280 Broadway, in which A. T. Stewart had his first great New York department store, has been acquired by William T. Dewart, president of the Sun, for the permanent home of the paper.

Dr. Goodman Is Reinstated as a Coroner's Physician

Coroner Oscar Wolf yesterday reinstated Dr. Joseph Goodman, who was discharged two weeks ago, as a coroner's physician. Wolff, in explaining the reinstatement, said he investigated where he will be only a short distance from the Nicaraguan border. [Fighting between American marines and Nicaraguan rebels of the last few days.]

250,000 SLAVES IN SIERRA LEONE, AFRICA, FREED

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone, Africa, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The Negroes of the Sierra Leone protectorate could all call their bodies their own today as they began work with the opening of the new year. Nearly 250,000 domestic slaves were delivered from bondage yesterday by decree and today were on a basis of political equality with their former masters.

Lady Simon, wife of Sir John Simon, British Liberal statesman, is given credit for disclosing to the outside world conditions existing in the protectorate and making an ardent plea which resulted in the emancipation of the slaves.

Emancipation did not evoke any demonstration. Indeed, their release is not yet fully understood by many of these simple and ignorant blacks. They are rather bewildered by the sudden change. Comparatively few of the former slaves have left their former masters and it is probable that many of them never will depart unless they are subjected to cruelty. In many cases the former slaves will have little difficulty in getting grants of land from their old masters.

Woman Boxer Loses Bout with Mate; Calls Police

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—[Special].—Excited cries that a woman was being murdered brought Hollywood police to an apartment in Whittier avenue today. The officers found Jeanne La Mar, professional woman boxer, engaged in a fist fight with her manager and husband, Thomas Fallace, whom Jeanne married in Chicago on Dec. 20. Mrs. Fallace told police that she and Tom had conducted a long distance cross country bout from Chicago to the coast, ever since they were married.

OPENS 4TH COURT FIGHT TODAY FOR CUSTODY OF BOY

His Grandmother Charges Secrecy in Adoption.

Improper secrecy in the procurement of an adoption decree will be charged by Mrs. Carola Berthold, 64 years old, of Denver, today before Probate Judge Henry Horner in her fourth court fight for the custody of her grandchild, Carl Reimers, 9 years old. The charge is aimed against the boy's step-mother, Mrs. Viola Reimers, 373 Williams street, River Forest.

Mrs. Berthold will ask Judge Horner to set aside an appointment of Public Guardian Bridget H. Sullivan as guardian of the child. The appointment was made on petition of Mrs. Reimers four days after the death on Aug. 4 of her husband, Henry Reimers, manager of the Illinois Athletic club, who was the boy's father and was a son-in-law of Mrs. Berthold.

The grandmother's attorney, Seymour N. Cohen, said yesterday that her request will be made to the judge on the contention that the appointment of Miss Sullivan was obtained for the sole purpose of having a guardian to consent to the adoption of the child by Mrs. Reimers without giving notice to Mrs. Berthold.

The Probate court fight is a preliminary to the grandmother's efforts

ACTRESS DIES

EMILY STEVENS.

EMILY STEVENS, ACTRESS, KIN OF MRS. FISKE, DIES

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Miss Emily Stevens, an actress who had filled leading roles in many plays, died this morning. She was a cousin of Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske.

Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, said there were indications the actress had taken an overdose of a drug. Dr. Milton J. Wilson, who had been called to attend Miss Stevens when she was found unconscious in her apartment, said the dose was a sedative which did not contain an opiate. He said pneumonia probably was the direct cause of death.

Miss Stevens, who was 46 years old, for about a year had been under the care of a neurologist. In the specialist's absence over the holidays, Dr. Wilson was summoned and found the actress in a highly nervous state. He administered a hypodermic injection of a narcotic containing the usual dose, he added, and Miss Stevens responded to the treatment.

Telegrams promptly were sent to Mrs. Fiske, who was starring with Otto Skinner and Miss Henrietta Cromman in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" in Chicago, and Robert Stevens, a brother, who is a stage director in Rochester.

Miss Stevens was born in New York 46 years ago, the daughter of Emma Maddern, actress, and Robert Stevens, theatrical producer. She made her stage debut in Mrs. Fiske's company, with which she played many notable parts in the next eight years.

Among the better known vehicles of Miss Stevens' success were "The Unchastened Woman," "The Boas," "Theater Guild production," "The Sporting Thing to Do," "Today," and, more recently, "Ibsen play revivals."

16 New Year's Celebrators Sign Pledges; Released

Sixteen New Year's celebrators yesterday lined up before Judge Max Luster in the Dea Plaines street court and agreed to sign a pledge after the judge said he would dismiss the charges of disorderly conduct which the police placed against them Saturday night. Judge Luster held a special session of court to free the men. A number of them were habitués of West Madison street lodging houses.

CHICAGO DANCER, WORLD FAMOUS, DEAD IN PARIS

"La Belle Loie" Fuller
Pneumonia Victim.

again, but developed a distaste for burlesque and turned back to the drama, appearing in Rider Haggard's "She," under the management of Charles Frohman. She headed a theatrical company on a long South American tour, which ended in a financial disaster.

Goes to London.

In 1923, Miss Fuller went to London, where she appeared as Mercy Baxter in "Caprice." The play failed and after several other unsuccessful experiments she returned to New York. At the Columbus theater in 1921 she introduced the famous serpentine dance in a play called "Quick, M. D." Two years later she went to Paris and became sensationally successful in it and other dances. She appeared personally and produced ballets in France, England, Germany and the United States down through 1911.

During the war she devoted herself to charitable work for the allies and won decorations from France, Belgium and Roumania. After the war she went back to her stage work and developed a school of dancing in Paris from which she sent troupes to various cities, including New York.

Friend of Queen Marie.

Among her many notable friends was Queen Marie of Roumania, with whom she traveled for a time in the United States in 1923. Owing to some difficulty never explained, she left the royal train at Denver and it was rumored that she and the queen were not so cordial as before. This was denied by both of them later, however.

Miss Fuller had an unfortunate experience when she contracted a common law marriage with Col. William Hayes, who it was discovered later had a living wife. The dancer had him arrested, and he served a term in Sing Sing prison.

Anatole France Aids Her.

Miss Fuller published in France two volumes of reminiscences, to one of which an introduction was written by Anatole France, one of her admirers.

Walter Fuller, who, with his wife and family lives in Hinsdale, is a cousin of Loie. He recalls many of the incidents of her early life. The tavern where she was born in Fullerburg was a center of travel in the seventies and eighties of the last century. Abraham Lincoln is said often to have stopped there on his trips through the country between Chicago and Springfield. One of the Fullers at the tavern was a marvel with the fiddle and often entertained transient guests with "Pop Goes the Weasel" and other tunes. The little girl's feet naturally would not keep still and she danced her way out to the stage.

OATH OF OFFICE BINDING, SMITH'S PASTOR AMBERTS

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—A

Catholic who takes the oath of office to administer the affairs of a community, state, or nation, is bound by his oath, no matter what interest, party, or friend might try to swerve him from it, Magr. John P. Chidwick, pastor of St. Agnes' church, declared today from the pulpit of St. Patrick's cathedral.

Magr. Chidwick addressed more than 5,000 members of the New York archdiocesan Holy Name society at its annual New Year's solemn high mass. Cardinal Hayes presided in the sanctuary and blessed those in attendance at the close of the ceremony.

"Even if it could be supposed that a churchman should approach him for favor, he would be compelled to stand by his oath of office and deny the favor," Magr. Chidwick said.

As this was the first time that anything resembling a reference to the present political situation had been made from the cathedral pulpit, Magr. Chidwick, who was chaplain of the battleship Maine when it was sunk in Havana harbor, was asked after the mass if he had had Gov. Smith and his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President in mind.

"That is just exactly whom I did mean," he replied.

Gov. Smith attended Magr. Chidwick's church when in New York.

Good used cars bought from a reliable dealer represent highest dollar value.

Used cars bought from a Cadillac-LaSalle dealer represent much more than dollar value. They are so sold as to build Good Will.

Unless the Cadillac-LaSalle dealer is a reliable used car merchant, his reputation must suffer. In the same ratio, his value to the Cadillac Motor Car Company lessens.

The Cadillac Motor Car Company insists upon honest merchandising practices.

SEEK TO MODIFY SEAMAN'S ACT TO AID SHIPPING

Owners, Fearing Failure, Go to Congress.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Modification of the drastic provisions of the La Follette seamen's act, which if it were strictly enforced, ship owners say, would put a finishing crimp in the declining American merchant marine, is to be sought at this session of congress.

This law, which was driven through congress by the labor lobby during the Wilson administration, compels the manning of American merchant ships with larger crews and operates to produce larger wage and other operating and maintenance costs than on foreign ships.

Abandon Enforcement.
The Coolidge administration has recognized the inability of American ships to compete with foreign ships because of the higher operating costs imposed by the La Follette act, and in order to save the remnants of our foreign trade shipping has virtually abandoned enforcement of the law in overseas trade.

During the last year of the Harding administration 405 violations of the act were reported. Under the first year of the Coolidge administration the violations reported dropped to 64, then to 24 in 1925, 47 in 1926 and 21 in 1927.

This leniency is appreciated by the ship owners who, however, desire to have it legalized by modification of the law, lest the labor lobby should decide to take the Coolidge administration in hand and compel strict administration of the statute.

May Lose Insurance.
Moreover, non-enforcement of the law does not save the ship owner from loss of insurance in case of accident if the underwriter is able to establish the technical unseaworthiness of the vessel by virtue of the failure to comply strictly with the provisions of the La Follette law.

At its convention last month the National Rivers and Harbors congress adopted a resolution asserting that "certain provisions" of the La Follette act "have been found to be injurious and detrimental to American shipping on the great lakes and on the high seas," and urging congress "to so amend this act and other navigation laws as to remove the handicap upon American shipping which experience has demonstrated to be unwise."

Views of Capt. Dollar.
According to Capt. Robert Dollar the strict enforcement of the law would put the American merchant marine, or what remains of it, completely out of business.

"I have asked three different presidents in Washington to enforce the seamen's act," strictly said Capt. Dollar. "If it had been strictly enforced, as it should have been, no ships could have sailed from an American port. I wanted the various Presidents to enforce it so that it would show the people what kind of a non-sensical law it was, but each one declined, and, therefore, the law has never been enforced to the letter."

One of the sections of the law not being strictly enforced is that which requires a ship master, in the event of desertions of members of the crew at a port, to fill their places with the same number of men, "if obtainable" of the same or higher grade. This section operates to place the master at the mercy of members of his crew in

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON
Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking it according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

many ports where competent men are scarce.

Under the terms of the law the master cannot clear from the port without a full complement of men, 65 per cent of whom are able seamen. Therefore, in ports where men are scarce, members of the crew are enabled to hold up the master for bonuses and other concessions on threat of desertion.

According to government officials the requirement of 65 per cent of the crew being able seamen is being strictly enforced in the case of passenger but not freight ships. There are instances, however, of freighters involved in accidents, the owners of which were unable to collect insurance because it was shown that the ships sailed without the places of deserters having been completely filled and without 65 per cent of the crew able seamen. The ship owners want the law amended to provide that the places of deserters shall be filled with the same number of equal grade "if obtainable after reasonable effort."

Must Have Two Watches.

The law provides also that the sailors shall be divided into at least two watches in the 24 hours. This is the tradition coming down from the era of sailing ships when it was necessary to have a full complement of deck hands on duty day and night to handle the sails.

In the age of steam the only seamen needed for navigation duties aboard the ordinary freighter are the helmsman and the lookout. The remainder of the crew is employed between ports on maintenance and upkeep of the ship. This work cannot be done at night. Hence the master would divide the helmsmen and lookouts in watches but would work the remainder of the crew throughout the day and give them a full night's sleep.

The courts held this a violation of the law and if the act were enforced it would be necessary for masters to carry larger crews in order to have men enough for deck work during the daylight watches when the remainder of the seamen were off duty. Then after dark maintenance work could not be performed and the night watches would be idle. For the three watch system several extra men on each ship would be necessary.

In the American coastwise trade and on the great lakes, where American ships are not in competition with foreign flag bottoms the seamen's act is strictly enforced for the reason that, with foreign ships excluded from these spheres, American ships suffer no handicaps from compliance with the statute.

The consumer is the only one hit.

for the law has increased the cost of water transportation.

The ship owners will seek an amendment providing that the watch system shall apply to the members of the crew exclusive of those required for maintenance and up keep work.

Another section of the act requires the master to pay a member of the crew half his wages due at any port. As a result men demand their pay, get it, go ashore, get drunk, and are unable to perform their duties when the ship sails. The owners want an amendment relieving the master of the necessity of paying men at one port who were intoxicated or insubordinate at the last port touched.

GOB IS MAYOR, AND HE'S GONNA RUN THE TOWN

"Out You Go," Present
Jobholders Told.

Newburyport, Mass., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Andrew J. "Boss" Gillis, red head, ex-gov. of the state, took oath of office as mayor of the city this morning.

This done, he called his brand new council into his presence and, in the picturesque and oft-unpublishable language of which navy forecastles and Newburyport street corners have made him a past master, "told 'em straight" from the shoulder what's what, who's who and why, from now on in this man's town.

A Lot of New Jobs.

If "Boss" has his way—and he will or there'll be war—Newburyport gets a new fire chief, a new city collector, a new assessor, a new superintendent of highways, a new board of health, a new city messenger, a new overseer of the poor, a new building inspector, a new harbor master, a new tree warden and superintendent of parks, a new caretaker of the city clocks, a new superintendent of spray and brown tail moth extermination, a new registrar of vehicles, a new librarian, and a new sealer of weights and measures.

"What the hell," said the new mayor, amicably. "We won, didn't we?"

TRIAL JUDGE GIVES VIEWS TO GOV. SMITH ON SNYDER, GRAY

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Justice Townsend Souder of the Supreme court, who presided at the trial which ended in death sentences for Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray for the murder of the woman's husband, has sent his views regarding the case to Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Justice Souder's recommendations and those of District Attorney Newcombe, who prosecuted the case, had been asked by the governor in connection with the clemency hearing to be granted by the governor Thursday.

The contents of Justice Souder's communication were not made public and he declined to discuss the matter further than to say that his personal views, which are opposed to capital punishment, were not permitted to influence his statement regarding Mrs. Snyder and Gray.

Why? Don't winners deserve the prize?

"Boss" was wholly willing to explain his choices and his discards. "I've never loved to the undeniably motley den of lawyers and snobs."

Why the Ax Falls.
"All right, you birds," he roared, "listen hard and go out and tell your friends, the victims, why the ax fell."

As for the qualifications of the "boys" to whom "Boss" is giving jobs, some "have had good business experience," some "need a pay envelope," some "joined the navy like men when the war came," "some are damned good fellows."

In the discard there is the rash gentleman who had the present mayor "pinched for selling gas without a permit," second, there is the "guy" who, when the mayor was a boy, told him to "run along home, puppy dog."

HOLD 2 SUSPECTS IN THE SLAYING OF CARPENTER

George Stellas, 35 years old, a waiter in the Radio Inn at 1840 West Madison street, was held by the police last night in connection with the death of Frank (Dutch) Carpenter, beer runner who was killed early Sunday.

Chief of Detectives William E. O'Connor asserted that he had definite information to show that Carpenter was killed in the inn and that his body was then tossed into the street. He added that the killing occurred during a fight over a woman. The shoes of Stellas were covered with stains which the police asserted had been made by human blood.

Joseph Burkhardt, owner of the place, also was held. Five others who had been held during the day were released last night. An inquest into the Carpenter death was continued until Jan. 18.

BILL EDWARDS, EX-GRID STAR, WEDS IOWA GIRL

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—William H. "Big Bill" Edwards, former Princeton university football star, and Norma Jones Steelsmith of Marengo, Ia., were married today at the Hotel Commodore.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard H. Edwards of Ithaca, N. Y., a brother of the bridegroom, and the Rev. Boyd D. Edwards, a cousin of Mr. Edwards and headmaster of the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Judge R. G. Popham of Marengo, Ia.

A reception followed the ceremony and Mrs. and Mr. Edwards left tonight for Miami and Sarasota, Fla., where they will be guests of John Ringling. They will reside in New York.

Delay Portuguese Inquest While Police Hunt Slayers

Inquest into the death of Harry Portuguese, who was fatally stabbed on New Year's eve by a man who came into his restaurant at 1300 South Jefferson street, was indefinitely continued yesterday to give the police time to apprehend the slayer. Witnesses testified that Portuguese seized a revolver and fired several shots at his assailant as the latter fled. Portuguese was the father of Jules Portuguese, well known gangster who was "taken for a ride" and murdered a year ago.

APPLEBY GRAND JURY WON'T GET DOCTOR'S STORY

Will Refuse to Testify
About Murder.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles A. McMillan, accused of the murder of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, widow of a wealthy Chicagoan, will stand on his constitutional rights and refuse to testify at tomorrow's grand jury session called to consider his indictment.

"I have instructed my client not to testify," his counsel, Ray Chesbro, said, "although the doctor firmly maintains his innocence, he has the constitutional right to refuse a statement before the grand jury. Dr. McMillan is in a perturbed mental state as a result of the many assertions made that involve him and it would be unwise for him to undertake to answer another grilling."

Deputy District Attorney Forrest Murray and Capt. William Bright of the sheriff homicide squad will present the evidence on which McMillan now is booked on a suspicion of murder charge.

The coroner's inquest over Mrs. Appleby's body will be held tomorrow morning. Burial arrangements will await the arrival of a relative from Florida. The grand jury session will follow the coroner's jury investigation.

White Top Hat of Afghan King Angers Cairo Moslems

LONDON, Jan. 2.—[UPI.]—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Cairo says because King Amanullah of Afghanistan has been wearing a white top hat during his visit in Cairo he has offended the Ulemas (Moslem religious leaders). They have shown their disapproval of his preference for European headgear instead of the traditional Fez or Afghan equivalent, by cancelling a farewell reception. King Amanullah greatly resented his white top hat being made the subject of a religious controversy and he is reported to have said such hats were worn generations ago in Afghanistan, and Europe probably borrowed the idea there.

STATE AMASSES DATA TO PROVE HICKMAN IS SANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—What plea William Edward Hickman will make to the formal charges of kidnapping and murdering Marian Parker and what line his defense will follow remained items of secret legal strategy tonight.

The 19 year old "Fox" conferred in jail today with Attorney Jerome Walsh of Kansas City. Walsh also conferred with Attorney Joseph Ryan of Los Angeles. Ryan recently quit his post as deputy district attorney after a disagreement over the dropping of the Almee McPherson charges. Whether Ryan will join the Hickman defense he refused to state tonight.

Hickman goes before Judge Carlos Hardy tomorrow. At the time he pleads to the Parker murder indictment, the county grand jury probably will be returning a second murder indictment against him. This is to be based upon "The Fox's" confession that he and Welby Hunt shot Ivy Thomas, a druggist, to death during a holdup on Christmas eve, 1924.

SUCCESS NOTHING BUT LUCK, OPINION OF DR. JOSEPH JASTROW

New York, Jan. 2.—[UPI.]—Success is merely due to luck, in the opinion of Dr. Joseph Jastrow, psychologist of Columbia university.

"Success? Bah!" he said. "Success is due to luck—luck, and just enough brains not to stay in the way of it."

"This is particularly true of success in the complex life at our age, and truer still of success in the city. The more success is dependent on what other people do—what the boss thinks of your ability, what other people manufacture, buy, or take pleasure in—the more it is a matter of luck."

Hickman's suitcase when the killer was arrested in Oregon assumed interest for the authorities today. Three pages had been ripped out of the book and Detective Captain Cline, who said that Hickman for some reason valued the book at the time he was captured, has been puzzled to learn the contents of the missing pages.

TOWN AND COUNTRY IN CONFLICT.

A. N. Abbott of Morrison was a member of the general assembly which made the last reapportionment of the state, and in the Voice of the People he makes a case for the downstate refusal to give Chicago its constitutional representation. It was an interesting letter, but even Mr. Abbott must admit that he left the matter just where it was.

The conflict represented in this controversy is not peculiar to this state. It is in the national congress as well. It is not peculiar to America and not to this period. It is one of the old conflicts of English history and in other nations as well. English industrial cities won their representation with great difficulty against rural squires and landed gentry who maintained just as rural Illinois maintains now that laws should not be made by that part of the population which had industrial occupation in great cities.

The rural districts had representation with barely any constituencies and the new industrial cities had no representation or next to none. Without any basis whatever, the rural assumption has been that the city is either politically inferior or politically dangerous or both. It is another old rural egotism to think that the country is essential to the city and the city not to the country.

Without the city the country would be leading what it itself would regard as a semi-savage life of deprivation and want. That's immaterial, but the city gets tired of some rural ideas. The point is that legislatures pass laws and laws affect people. The constitutional provision is that the people affected shall be protected in their interests by their representatives and that they shall be counted head by head and represented according to ratio applied to the entire state.

It is no use to argue from the assumption that city masses send inferior representatives to Springfield. So also does the country. The city sends some of the ablest, inferiority and dishonesty, excellence and probity find congenial companions from city and country alike. It is also useless to say home rule for the city. There are general laws and taxes. They spread over the state and all the people of the state affected by them should have fair share in deciding what they shall be.

The disposition of the Illinois legislature which partly disfranchises Chicago to pass legislation prejudicial to Chicago is already apparent. A denial of representation is not only obvious in theory but it is practically injurious and is becoming more so in every session. This denial is not defensible.

HOLD'UM YALE.

Until recently Harvard had all the breaks in the culture of government in Chicago. Yale has had the class of a minor college and has been unable to furnish men of parts able to make their way into the halls of authority and the seats of government. It may have been rather a lack of refinement than of force of character. It is not enough that a citizen bring a forward looking willfulness and an iron will to Mayor Thompson's administration and to other fields of official action. Elegance and finesse are requisites. Bill found them in Samuel Hittelson, Harvard '96. The homes of Yale haven't been able to qualify. They haven't been rough enough when they needed them and they haven't been refined enough when the idea was not to raise your voice.

That was until the other day, but you can't keep Yale down permanently; not even Harvard can do it, not all the time. Eugene R. Pike, Yale '90, is now president of the Lincoln park board and the green old building is all basted out in blue ribbons. Presently Chicago government will be high lighting even the lord mayor of London. We're collegiate.

LAW AND INSANITY.

Judge Rodgers of Cincinnati found George Remus, wife murderer, insane and a dangerous person to be at large, and ordered him committed to an asylum. He did so despite the opinions of half a dozen specialists in mental diseases, who declared Remus sane within the meaning of the law, although they found him a psychopath and a dangerous one. The dispatch from Cincinnati carried this additional information that Judge Rodgers, after twenty years on the probate bench, had a wide reputation for common sense. He lived up to his reputation in the Remus case.

The public, whose knowledge of common sense is fuller than its knowledge of the law, will interpret the judge's decision in the way it probably was meant, as an effort to make up for the sentimentality of the jury that acquitted Remus. It will believe the judge stretched the strict statute a little in order to put Remus away from society, as he clearly should be. If his past actions and his threats for the future are an indication of his mind.

It would seem time to revise the legal cognizance of insanity. No other plea is so misunderstood and so misused. In most states the law distinguishes insanity only as the ability to discern right from wrong and to act accordingly. In practice, courts and juries excuse defendants on the ground of insanity when their actions were clearly sane within the meaning of the law. And in science alienists plead mental deficiencies that are clearly without the meaning of the law. Superimpose on this situation the usual spectacle of hired expert testimony propounded to inept jurors and you have the reason trials based on a question of insanity seldom work justice.

Had it not been for the common sense of the trial judge, who withheld a possible full acquittal from the jury, and the probate judge who heard the insanity case, Remus—who thought himself justified in taking the law into his own hands and committing murder, and who threatened to commit more murder—would be out on the street today, free and blameless.

KNOWING THE U. S. ABROAD.

Dr. J. C. Bay, librarian of the John Crerar library, speaking at the American Library Institute, said that a search made by him in the libraries of Europe brought to light little or nothing American, except here and there a copy of Bancroft's history. Europe had no interest in forming correct impressions of America and few means were available to the people generally of doing so. He thought it was a fair field for promotion to remove misunderstanding.

The United States has a set of historical interests which few if any other nations have. The history of American language and of most of its political institutions is English history. It flows up to and joins American history. It is a requisite for the people even of other than English derivation who are now American citizens. They cultivate their own political backgrounds and study them, but they also must include English because it is the origin of the language they learn to speak, of the forms of law to which they submit and of most of the structure of government in which they live. A broad culture in American life includes more than that, but an American boy of Slavic or other descent does not know his own country unless he knows the history from which it was derived.

An American to be well instructed in his own affairs cannot be of a parochially-nationalistic mind. His interests must be broad or his deficiencies are evident. An Australian might find that America knew little of that country. There the historical requisite does not exist for the American and it does for him in the case of Great Britain.

European interest in the United States is occasional and not historical. America is hardly essential to a knowledge of continental Europe. The British should know American colonial history to understand their own, but they need know as little of W. H. Seward for such reasons as Americans need know of Disraeli or Gladstone for the same reasons.

Europe generally has a sufficient absorption of interests at home, and in a wide play of national egotisms the United States when considered abroad is only a highly solvent hick, unquestionably with a big wallet but important only when it can be taken for a ride.

A PEOPLE'S NATION.

Americans own some $100,000,000,000 worth of stocks and bonds. In addition they possess several billion dollars in government securities. The ownership of this wealth is spread out among several million people. This is the story told by O. A. Mather, financial editor of THE TRIBUNE.

It means that in its own way America is adopting what might be called a system of capitalism. The ownership of wealth is spreading into more and more homes, and it is not wealth in gold eagles hidden in a sock. It is working wealth, invested in the nation's business. While the money power still tends to focus itself in the hands of a few, capital no longer means the money baron of muckraking, trust busting days. It means, more and more, the American people. People's ownership of natural resources, business, and industry is growing.

The American wants his wealth managed by private hands. He has had experience with government management and is familiar with its failure. He trusts the man who has risen to the top in private life more than the man who has climbed the political ladder—at least in the sound handling of finance. So America has communism without state control.

And he has it without confiscation and without compulsion. He owns because he wants to, and nothing but the usual hazard of investment can take his wealth from him. He owns in accordance with his ability and his judgment and not by any divine right of equality. He works to promote the common prosperity, not through any desire to help an intangible thing like the state, but to help himself and his family. The old distinction between capital and labor is fading. The modern laborer is often a capitalist, even though a small one; and it has been discovered that a capitalist usually works, and for the welfare of others besides himself.

Editorial of the Day

THE ARSENAL'S IDEALNESS.

[The Davenport (Ia.) Times.]

Philip Kinsley of the staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, taking a look about the U. S. arsenal here, terms it "a monument to unpreparedness."

Six to eight months would be required to produce newly designed guns after war began. If the first soldiers to take the field would be supplied with the most efficient weapons. Failure to pursue such a course necessitates the use of antiquated and inferior equipment. It is to needlessly sacrifice the advance guard of the army.

We were forced to rely upon French '78 when our soldiers were sent to France because of our failure to prepare for the inevitable war. The government and congress of the United States persist in that folly today. The philosophy of such a policy is that human life is cheaper than keeping our war machine up to date.

In directing attention to the inactivity at the Rock Island arsenal THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which circulates widely in the central west, performs a service to the nation and to the quad-cities. Public sentiment must first be aroused if the arsenal is to be of maximum value to the nation. The private munition makers can be kept busy to the impairment of the usefulness of the government institution only as long as the people of the country are unaware of the effect of the present policy.

It will not be until an aggressive campaign is made on behalf of the arsenal that the $200,000,000 national investment will be put to good use. We are wasteful of public funds in peace as well as in war time. The profiteer we have with us always. The Rock Island arsenal is idle for the reason that it is highly profitable for private manufacturers who are influential at Washington to keep it out of the bidding.

How to Keep Well

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

MODERN FOOD TERMS EXPLAINED.

A N old and very loyal friend of the column asks for a very simple statement of some of the fundamental facts about foods, including definitions of some of the terms used. It is true, he says, that most of the younger people know the meaning of these terms, but the older people, who are in the grades in school. However, there are many who want to know before these subjects were taught in the grades. They are now being taught but have forgotten them since, and they want to know.

The carbohydrates are the starch and sweet foods. The term means that they are composed principally of carbon and hydrogen in certain arrangements. The best known carbohydrate foods are breads, cereals and other foods made from grains, potatoes and some other root foods, and the ordinary sugars and sweets. These foods are used by the body to make heat and energy.

Hydrocarbons, or fats. Some readers may have the term hydrocarbons in their memories as the scientific name for fats, for it was once used in that way. No longer so. We now speak of the edible oils and butters as fats and greases. The fats and oils are principally composed of carbon and hydrogen, but these elements are combined differently from the combination which makes starches and other carbohydrates. The fats are made of: Butter, meat fat, nut oils, olive oil, and other vegetable oils. These foods are burned by the body to make heat and energy.

Proteins are particularly anxious that proteins and proteins be made plain. These substances contain nitrogen as well as carbon, hydrogen, and other substances. They may also contain sulfur and other chemicals, but it is the nitrogen which makes them different from all other food elements. They make heat and energy just as other foods do, but they are also the building blocks for growth and to repair the results of wear in cells. The better known protein, or protein, or albuminous foods (for all three terms mean about the same) are lean meat and the white of eggs.

The salts are the minerals which we must eat in order to replace those lost in the day's work. The best known of these are salt or chloride of soda, lime or calcium, phosphorus and iron. We speak of them as food substances to replace losses. They are not repair foods in the sense the albuminous foods are.

The vitamins are newly discovered substances. They exist in very small quantities in foods. They are supposed to stir up things, in a measure, to act as the catalyst. But we do not know just how they do act.

BABY CROWDING PROGRESS.

Mrs. C. A. P. writes: I. My baby was 5 months old the last part of August. She weighed 14 pounds. Should I give her orange juice and gruels?

2. What kind of gruels should she have and how much?

3. She sits up when she is lying down. She cannot pull herself up into a sitting posture, but if we set her up she stays that way. Is there any harm in her sitting up so soon?

4. I weigh 112 pounds and am 20 years old. I nurse the baby. How can I reduce?

REPLY:

1. Yes.

2. It does not matter which gruel you use. A recent study shows that wheat and potato starches are just as good as more costly cereals. A very thin mixture, scarcely stronger than a cereal water.

3. She is crowding a little fast, but if there is danger it is from rickets.

4. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to receive a booklet on the matter of perseverance and determination.

GO ON EATING BRAIN.

Miss E. S. writes: I am troubled with constipation, and I have been taking a dish of bran every morning for relief. I have been told that it is dangerous to take bran unless advised to do so by a doctor.

REPLY:

If this is true, many millions live in danger. Go on with your bran eating.

WHAT EMPLOYERS SHOULD KNOW.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A salesman is employed in a store on a salary of $20 a week and is paid on Saturday night for his work, Monday to Saturday.

If the concern lets him go on Tuesday morning and pays him just for one day of that week, Monday, is he not entitled to get paid in full for the week he started in, he being employed by the week?

J. G. A. Depends on whether the employment is by the week or by some other period. Illinois cases tend to hold that the wage payment is not conclusive on this point.

If the employer is discharged without legal ground during one of the recurrent periods of the employment he is entitled to pay to the end of such period, although he can be discharged at the end of the period without notice. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DISAPPOINTED.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Not so long ago I registered in a night school for the purpose of taking a course in law, which, after taking a few lessons, did not come up to my expectations. Disappointed, I stopped going. In the meantime notifying the authorities of my decision. Now they keep on sending notices for the balance of the tuition. Can they make me pay it?

M. K. Yes, if your only defense is the fact that you were disappointed. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

QUIN IS BUST.

Whitings (in fog)—What is an interesting subject just now?

How much income tax will the government exact of the captors of Hickman from their reward of $100,000 in the event it is paid them?

Would be pleased to read the answer or hear Quin tell us over the radio at an early date.

H. D. S. Depends on the extent of their claims from other sources.

VAGABOND

The town-folk called him vagabond, And aft his back they smiled To hear he'd been in Celebes, In Liechtenstein and Kent; "I knowed his father years ago, An' Lor', he wasn't wild. He tilled his farm an' took the things That Providence had sent!"

They never quite believed his tales (Though they would hear him through); A row of corn they'd drill as straight As line-fence, north and south; And they could tell a horse's age, Or how to drain a slough. And figure when the frosts would come And if there'd be a drouth.

But Kongo and Cameroons And Secondece and Crete— A man had better till his soil And bed his horses down; A lowly name that, "vagabond," "Why don't he rest his feet?"

What for? . . . a headstone set in grass

A half mile out of town . . .

DONFARLAN.

CHRISTMAS, with two holidays, and New Year's, with two holidays, are over. Nothing in sight but the bigger part of winter, ice, cold, winds, blizzards. Oh, shut up, Pollyanna, and if you grin just once more we'll bust you on the snout.

He Was Some Hisser

Rhl: My sister, home from the University of Illinois, told us this story about a friend of hers: A frat boy, probably a Beta, took the girl out on a date and finally kissed her, whereupon she hauled off and swatted him on the jaw. He grabbed her by the throat and blazed: "I love-you-damn-you-but-don't-you-do-that-again!"

Very Likely

R. H. L.: "Have a good time, but don't drink." Is our good friend Mr. Yellow's advice. This sounds like the fond mother who said to her daughter, "Go swimming, my daughter, but keep out of the water."

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK FOR 1928 IS ROSY. We know that because we have read the interviews with distinguished authorities on the subject. We wish somebody would interview us on the business outlook for a new year. We would say: "From our survey of the past and a hurried examination into conditions now existing we would say that for the coming year the business outlook is a bright and very beautiful pink with red stripes down the back." We might not be understood if we said that, but, anyhow, we would have torn the New Year reviewers away from that infernal word "rosy" and thereby would have done humanity a great and lasting service.

A Simple Matter of Arithmetic

RHL: Our street car conductors are conscientious and as honest as Haldad street is long—and if that isn't true I hope to kiss this pig in the snout! In San Francisco the street car fare is 5 cents, which doesn't seem to have very much to do with the exacting scruples of OUR street car conductors, does it? Then let us return: "U-m-m-m," uttered the conductor, looking at the nickel the man from San Francisco handed him. "3 cents more, please—be certain the man from the west me it's 7 cents!" exclaimed the man from the west. "Yep—7 cents—an' if ya don't believe it, ask 'er up yourself!"

BERTL V. THOMPSON.

LOOK how bad everybody feels just because the Christmas and the New Year's holidays were only a week apart. Let us, indeed, be grateful that the fathers of our glorious country did not sign the Declaration of Independence on the second or third of January. We simply couldn't have stood it, that's all.

We Have Sworn Off Printing Them This Year

R. H. L.: I've never before been guilty of a Scotch story. But just the same this Scotchman drank his first cup of tea one day. It came about when an Englishman gave him a bit of tea to try out on his precursor. And strange as it may seem, the Scotchman learned to love his cup of tea. Several times a day he drank the silly stuff—it became a great passion with him. No meal was complete without it and never could he bed himself down for the night without his delightful cup of tea. Once—believe it or not—he traded one of his homing pigeons for a new teapot. But after many years there came a sad day when the spell was broken, and never again—from that day on—did tea come into the unhappy man's life. His hearty old tea leaves had worn out!

GEORGE THE RED MAN.

She Was a Bearded Lady

R. H. L.: Last January, a year ago, there was a little girl baby born an' they all called 'er Miss 1927—an' in Saturday's Tain Jawn McQuibben drew a picture of 'er leavin', only she had grown up to be a old man. How come?

SONNET 22

The night was all too sweet. And then the dawn, With flowing robes and dark mysterious hair, Walked gently by us as we watched a glare Light up the east from whence the dark had gone.

And on the houses, white and still and free, In all that early quiet, etched in grey, Were shadowed branches watching the new day That crept toward home more quietly than we.

The streets were still, like lips relaxed in sleep Whereon the smiles of other times have lain. (Who would ever dream that so much pain Could come from watching red clouds frown and weep?)

Oh, never shall I try to hold a dawn Within my heart until all else has gone!

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 3, 1863.

NASHVILLE.—A terrific battle was fought at Murfreesboro on Dec. 31. Gen. Rosecrans' forces encountered the rebels on the 30th near Stuart's creek, and after heavy skirmishing the rebels were driven back. The battle was resumed with great fury at daybreak the next day. Gen. McCook's corps was opposed to Hardee. After desperate fighting, with heavy loss, McCook retreated two miles. He soon rallied and was again driven back. At night he was four miles this side of the ground he occupied in the morning. The fight continued until 10 p. m., at which time we had maintained our position. The federal loss is very heavy. Among the killed are: Brig. Gen. Sill, Lieut. Col. Gorchie of Gen. Rosecrans' staff, Brig. Gen. Willich of Indiana and Brig. Gen. Shaffer.

FRENCH TREATY MAY BE IN TWO SEPARATE PACTS

Submitted by U. S. in Alternative Form.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—American proposals in connection with the projected new peace treaty with France, to take the place of the Root arbitration pact which expires Feb. 27, have been placed before the French government in alternative form.

Whether the result of the conversations and exchanges of memoranda will result in a single treaty or in two separate pacts supplementary to each other depends presumably on French study of the American suggestions.

The suggestions were put in definite form and transmitted through the French embassy after Secretary Kellogg had discussed the situation with the entire membership of the senate foreign relations committee.

Two Different Proposals.

In the conversations between Secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Claudel there were two different proposals as to ways of tightening up diplomatic machinery for preserving peace. The Washington government is planning to follow up the conclusion of the new peace treaties with France by making over its arbitration agreements with other countries on the same model.

Skeleton of Proposals.

That circumstance inclines the Washington viewpoint to favor a revision and strengthening of the Root treaty so as to include a policy declaration against war in the preamble. The succeeding articles of the treaty, however, would reinstate the commitments to submit to arbitration at The Hague disputes of every character which could not otherwise be settled and which did not involve:

1. Matters of a purely internal and domestic character.
2. Questions which involve the interests of a third power.
3. Questions growing out of the maintenance by the United States of the Monroe doctrine.

ITALIANS FLEE HOMES FEARING BIG EARTHQUAKE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ROME, Jan. 2.—Terrified at the belief that the Roman Castelli country, about Lake Nemi, south of Rome, is about to be visited by another earthquake, hundreds of peasants and villagers, refusing to return to their homes, tonight are living in the open in the severe cold. Appeals were sent out to the Red Cross today to provide them with tents and huts.

Slight shakes were experienced last night in the towns of Genzano, Nemi, and Lanuvio, bordering on Lake Nemi, causing a panic among the people of the three towns, which number several thousand. Most of them passed the night in the fields. Today calm was restored in Genzano and Lanuvio, but the Nemi people, whose houses were badly shaken and made dangerous by last week's severe quake, still are living in terror that the volcanic substrata of the lake region soon will be subject to another shock which will crumble the houses.

Last night's quake was not felt in Rome, but was registered on the seismic instruments at Padua and Turin.

MEXICO BANDITS BLAST BRIDGES, ISOLATE TRAIN

Rebel Activity Near Matatlan Reported.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright, 1928, by The Chicago Tribune.]
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—The Southern Pacific train, which was cut off Saturday by rebels between the Great canyon and Matatlan, has not yet been located. The rebels, working by night, dynamited two of the largest bridges on the part of the Southern Pacific which lately has linked up Guadalajara with the Pacific coast, built at a cost of more than $10,000,000.
The country in which the rebels are operating is extremely rugged and affords an excellent hunting ground for guerrillas. Below Barranca, which it at the eastern side of the canyon, the second bridge blown up is one of the longest on the line, and built of steel. How great the damage done to the bridges has not been ascertained, but it was sufficient to tie up traffic for some days, which makes certain the destruction of long train loads of fruits and vegetables from the coast lands for Guadalajara.
The rebels who dynamited the bridges were said to have gathered from the states of Nayarit and Sinaloa. It is reported that they retreated to the mountains between these states, where it is difficult for the regular troops to follow them.
Heavy detachments of troops were moving yesterday and today into the northern parts of Sinaloa and Tepic, capital of Nayarit. Other troops have been sent to guard all the bridges along the Southern Pacific passing through the states of northern Sinaloa, western Jalisco, and Nayarit.

2 YOUTHS, HURT IN CHRISTMAS AUTO CRASH, DIE

Edwin Devereux, 22 years old, 6814 South Lincoln street, and Ray Anderson, 25 years old, 1238 South Justine street, died yesterday from injuries received on Christmas when their automobile collided with a taxicab at 55th street and Racine avenue. Police arrested the cab chauffeur, John Patton, 5339 South Kildare avenue.
These deaths, with one other during the day, gave 1928 a motor toll for Cook county of four in two days.
Charles Lucas, 11 years old, 2618 West 55th street, died from injuries received Dec. 31. He was steering his truck as it was being towed to a garage. The truck skidded into a support of the elevated railroad structure at Lake street and Kilbourne avenue and he was hurt internally.

START INQUIRIES INTO TWO FATAL TRAIN ACCIDENTS

Investigations into railroad crashes which killed three and injured more than 100 over the week-end were started yesterday by Coroner Oscar Wolf. Inquests concerning the deaths were continued to allow an inquiry into the stories told by operatives of trains involved in the wrecks.
A dying statement taken from Joseph O. Stafford, 148 East 112th street, Sunday night at the Pullman Emergency hospital, where he was taken following the collision of two South Shore line trains in which he was fatally hurt and 23 others injured, declared that he saw the stalled train ahead of him when he was 1,000 feet away. He was unable to stop, he said, because the brakes of his train would not hold. He was the motorman of the second train in the collision.

The inquest in this case, held by Deputy Coroner J. J. Dedrick, was continued to Jan. 17.

Dr. S. F. Kubala Found Dead on Operating Table

Heart disease was believed last night to have caused the death of Dr. Stephen F. Kubala, 49 years old, whose body was found lying on the operating table in his office at 3205 West 23d street by a patient who called there last night. Dr. Kubala, according to the police, had been dead about two days. He lived at 4412 West 37th street, Berwyn, and had last been seen by his housekeeper, Mrs. Emily Yallogous, on Saturday evening, when he appeared in good health.

They never forgot the tantalizing taste of Grandmother Mickelberry's little farm sausage

Sausage banquets on the old Mickelberry Plantation became a sacred rite. From miles around chosen guests gathered to enjoy the delights of this inspired food.

On those rare occasions Grandmother Mickelberry herself took command in the great kitchens, where at all other times an old Mammy presided.

For the sausage recipe was Grandmother Mickelberry's own creation. In all the world she alone knew its secret.

By some subtle witchery she would blend choice morsels of tender young pork with Southern spices and chosen condiments that not only tantalized the taste beyond resistance but also stimulated digestion. So none ever left the Mickelberry table unsatisfied.

The same Southern seasoning
It is to Grandmother Mickelberry that we owe the recipe for Mickelberry's famous old farm sausage. The delicate, spicy flavor which so many relish today—which whets the appetite to especial keenness and aids assimilation—faithfully follows the original recipe.

But today, instead of the select few of those early days, millions enjoy these dainty little sausages in appetizing recipes appropriate for any meal of the day. They are served the year around in homes, hotels, clubs and on finest trains.

Mickelberry's old farm sausage is made and delivered to your neighborhood meat shop fresh every day—in the famous green and yellow package. Links, patties or meat.

ARE YOU RUNNING THE RISKS OF ISOLATION

WHEN you need heat most is on the days when blizzards hurl down the streets crippling the activities of the town with tangled wires and trees, blocking the streets with snow.

It happens every year. And thousands of homes are isolated while half-frozen crews battle to restore service.

If your heating plant depends on the continuous operation of outside sources, or the unending working of intricate machinery, the health of your family is in peril when the storm-fiend strikes.

With Reading Anthracite you are safe. You can store it indefinitely without deterioration, or possibility of damage. Dustless, sootless, and without smoke, you can burn it without making dirty the interior of your own home, or the exterior of your neighbor's.

In the firebox of your furnace it goes contentedly about its job of keeping you warm, asking for but a little attention, needing no help from outside sources.

Keep your home heating plant independent. Then you will not run the risks of isolation when winter is at its worst. Your coal merchant has or can get Reading Anthracite.

WET, DRY BILLS ARE BEING RAISED UPON CONGRESS

Some Ask Law's Repeal,
Others More Teeth.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—While there is slight probability of any radical legislation on the subject of the repeal of the Volstead act, it is certain that, with a presidential campaign in the immediate offing, prohibition will be in the forefront of the major political issues discussed during this session of congress. Nearly fifty bills and resolutions proposing all sorts of solutions of the great national problem ranging from outright repeal of the 18th amendment or liberalization of the Volstead act to drastic amendment of the dry statute providing heavy jail sentences for "first offenders" and authorizing the use of the army, navy or any other government arm deemed necessary to insure 100 per cent enforcement, were introduced before the Christmas holidays.

Calls for Inquiries.
Aside from the clamor for consideration of these proposals will be insistent demands for searching inquiries into prohibition enforcement methods generally and particularly into the "shoot to kill" policy which is known

DRYS MOBILIZE TO FORCE PARTIES TO BACK PROHIBITION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—An ambitious attempt to weld all the organized and scattered dry forces of the nation into a united group sufficiently powerful to force the insertion of dry planks in the 1928 presidential platforms of both political parties will be made at a national prohibition conference here on Jan. 24. Leaders of thirty-two reform and prohibition organizations will send out a nation-wide rallying call for the meeting some time this coming week. Prospects are now that the church organizations, the Anti-Saloon league, and other dry reform bodies will play a practical politics in the 1928 campaign than ever before. Deeds Pickett, research secretary for the Methodist temperance board and secretary of the committee preparing for the conference, described the purposes of the meeting as that of building up sufficient strength to force the parties into line.

Church organizations affiliated with the coming conference include the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, the commission on temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church south, the department of social service of the United Presbyterian church, the department of moral welfare of the Presbyterian church in the United States, and the temperance commission of the Reformed Presbyterian church.

to have cost the lives of at least 126 persons in the last seven years. Representative James A. Gallivan [Dem., Mass.], a member of the house appropriations committee, has announced that when Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman and Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran appear to bespeak increased appropriations for the dry enforcement bureau he will demand the production of every record in the bureau bearing on Volstead slayings. The Gallivan inquiry is to include a probe into the prevailing practice under which federal district courts are induced to assume jurisdiction over "hair trigger" dry agents accused in state courts of murder or manslaughter and as a result of which the alleged slayers defended by the United States attorneys have in almost every instance escaped punishment.

Want More Teeth in Law.
The militant dry group in congress undoubtedly will center its strength behind the so-called Stalker bill designed to put more teeth into enforcement. The bill, introduced on the opening day of the present session, failed to get past the house judiciary committee last year.

As reintroduced on the opening day of the present session, the Stalker bill provides fines ranging from $100 to $1,000 and jail sentences ranging from ninety days to one year for "first offenders" against the Volstead act. Representative Thomas Blanton [Dem., Tex.], whose leadership of the extreme wing of the dry bloc in the house has been unquestioned since the enforced retirement of that other dry zealot, Upshaw of Georgia, has introduced three sweeping measures calculated to realize "bone dry" prohibition.

One of the three would wipe the exemption from prohibition now extended to foreign diplomats and members of their embassy or legation staffs. Another would provide impeachment or dishonorable discharge from the government service of any member of the senate or house, officer or enlisted man of the army, navy, or marine corps or other federal employe accused of purchasing "intoxicating liquor from a bootlegger," as that term is commonly understood. The third Blanton measure would authorize the President to employ the army and navy, the merchant marine, and even the facilities of the inland and coastwise waterways service to enforce prohibition. The resolution, now pending in the house judiciary committee, asserts that "in certain large cities like New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, some of the local authorities are in open rebellion and insubordination against the 18th amendment," and that the situation demands the mobilization of every force available to the government to suppress the rum revolt.

The wets in congress, following the lead taken by the outstanding liberal organizations of the country, are planning a drive to pass one of the several pending proposals to test the prohibition sentiment of the country in a national referendum. Two such proposals have been made in the house by Representatives C. J. McLeod [Rep., Mich.] and Gallivan [Dem., Mass.]. Senator Walter E. Edge [Rep., N. J.] included one among the several prohibition measures he introduced in the senate early in the session.

All three of the referendum measures would have the canvass made at the next general election in the various states, when members of the next congress are elected.

Eleven measures, including one offered by Representative Thomas J. Doyle [Dem., Ill.] of Chicago, who urges it as a means "to prevent open conflict between state and federal officers and to allay the present unrest of labor in every state of the Union," would legalize beer and light wines in states which authorize their manufacture and sale by popular vote.

Four Bills Seek Amendments.
Four bills would amend the constitution, either repealing the eighteenth amendment outright or modifying it to authorize the adoption of government control system modeled after the scheme which the wets assert has proved successful in Quebec and other Canadian provinces.

Fourteen bills proposing to amend the Volstead act to legalize beer with alcohol percentages ranging from 3% to 5 per cent are pending in the house as are a number of miscellaneous proposals, including several to define "intoxicating liquor" as liquor "intoxicating in fact" and others to permit householders to manufacture "liquor not intoxicating in fact" in their own homes for family consumption.

CAPITAL SOCIETY CALLS; 3,300 IN WHITE HOUSE LINE

Official Washington Not Chilled by Cold Wave.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—High dignitaries and officers of the United States and other lands joined with plain everyday citizens in celebrating a word of New Year's greeting with the President and Mrs.
Coolidge at the annual White House reception today.

Following closely the traditional procedure handed down from the days of John Adams, President and Mrs.
Coolidge stood in the old blue room and shook hands with a seemingly endless stream of well wishing callers from 11 o'clock in the morning until well into the afternoon.

A cold wave failed to thin down the line of visitors at this most picturesque and democratic of all White House functions. A check-up at the close of the day disclosed that 3,300 persons had shaken hands with the President.

Cabinet First to Call.
Top hats and frock coats of cabinet members and diplomats mingled with the plumed headgear and gold braid of the military during the morning reception. First to arrive were members of the cabinet, with white haired Secretary of State Frank Kellogg in the lead. Other members of the President's official family followed.

President Coolidge appeared to have discarded all his reserve in his greetings. He and Mrs. Coolidge conversed cordially, although briefly, with the various cabinet members as they passed rapidly down the receiving line.

Envoys Add Spark of Color.
After the cabinet members came the formally dressed envoys, their brilliantly uniformed aides adding a splash of color to the swiftly moving line.

Prominent among the diplomatic group were noted Sir Esmé Howard of the British embassy, Ambassador Paul Caudel of France, and the new Turkish ambassador, Ahmed Moubtar Bey.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft led the contingent of associate justices of the Supreme court into the room after the diplomats had passed. The chief justice smiled broadly as he greeted the President.

After the military group headed by
Maj. Gen. Charles F. Summerall, army chief of staff, and the lesser lights in the President's official family had passed by, a contingent made up principally of old timers, including veterans of many wars, paraded past.

Public Arrives After Lunch.
Shortly after noon the President and Mrs. Coolidge retired for lunch, resuming their places in the reception line at 1 o'clock to greet the citizenry of Washington.

A New Englander, J. W. Hunefield, of 225 C street, N. W., was the first person in line outside the White House grounds when the gates were opened for the public reception today.
Hunefield took up his post at 5:45 o'clock and stuck it out until afternoon in spite of the bitter cold.

At the conclusion of the White House ceremonies, receptions were held by many of the cabinet members and other high officials.

The President's reception was followed immediately by the annual breakfast to the diplomatic corps given by the secretary of state and

Mrs. Kellogg in the Pan-American Union building. In the interim between the time the diplomats were received by the President and Mrs.
Coolidge, and then by the secretary and Mrs. Kellogg, they changed the gorgeous court regalia which they always wear at the White House to the afternoon dress of private citizens.

Cabinet Members Entertain.
A great throng motored to the suburban home of the postmaster general and Mrs. New, a charming, ideal place at Edgemoor, just over the boundary line between the District of Columbia and Maryland.

The residence of the secretary of labor and Mrs. James J. Davis was another particularly interesting place with the little group of young Davises all assisting. James J. Jr., Joan, Jean, Jane, and Jewell. The wives of the assistant secretaries, Mrs. Robe Carl White and Mrs. W. W. Hubbard, and Mrs. Harry E. Hull assisted Mrs.
Davis.

Open fires greeted the callers in the home of the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who had with them the assistant secretary and Mrs.
George Akerson, assistant secretary and Mrs. Lawrence Richey, the assistant secretary for aviation, and Mrs.
MacCracken and a long list of other officials of that department.

The secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, was assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, mother-in-law of the secretary's daughter; Mrs. Carl T. Schuerman, and Mrs. Eugene Meyer Jr. His apartment at 1755 Massachusetts avenue was crowded throughout the afternoon.

The rare paintings in the secretary's drawing room, library, and dining room attracted every one particularly.

The secretary of war and Mrs.
Dwight F. Davis had a charming reception, with a section of the army band playing in the main corridor.
They were assisted by their debutante daughter, Miss Alice Brooks Davis, in receiving. Mrs. Summerall, wife of the chief of staff, was with Secretary and Mrs. Davis for the earlier part of the afternoon, leaving early to receive with Gen. Summerall in their quarters at Fort Myer.

Receive at the Mayflower.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs.
Wilbur had a large reception in the memorial Continental hall of the D. A.
R., with a large corps of assistants, and the secretary of agriculture had a very large reception at the Mayflower, where they make their winter home.

The chief justice and Mrs. Taft held a reception in their home on Wyoming avenue, where a cheery atmosphere met visitors.

HINT SURPRISE AT M'ANDREW TRIAL TODAY

Something new in the way of testimony is to be introduced into the trial of William McAndrew, suspended school superintendent, at this afternoon's session. It was promised last night by Frank S. Rightmeyer, school board attorney.

Mr. Rightmeyer said that the evidence will not concern the charges against McAndrew fostered pro-British teaching in the public schools nor that the suspended school head demanded 100 per cent accuracy of pupils in arithmetic.

"It is to be a surprise," he said.
It is expected that the trial will continue for another month. Then, his term having expired, charges against McAndrew may be dismissed or he may be found guilty of insubordination. If he is found guilty, McAndrew's attorneys, Angus Roy Shannon and Francis X. Busch, declare that they will attempt to have the decision reversed in the courts.

RECOVERS FROM POISON ATTEMPT.
Changing her mind after attempting suicide yesterday by swallowing poison, Mrs.
Bess Kimmie, 23, 711 Waveland avenue, administered antidotes with such success that she was pronounced out of danger upon arrival at a hospital.

PACKARD EIGHT PRICES REDUCED

PACKARD'S own Custom Eight cars are today reduced in price as follows:

MODEL	OLD PRICE	NEW PRICE	REDUCTION
Seven Pass. Sedan Limousine	$5250	$4550	$700
Seven Passenger Sedan . .	5150	4450	700
Two Pass. Convertible Coupe	4950	4250	700
Two Passenger Coupe . .	4800	4150	650
Five Passenger Club Sedan .	4950	4450	500
Four Passenger Coupe . .	4950	4450	500

The Packard factories are busy to capacity—busier than ever before in nearly thirty years of fine motor car building and at a season of the year when activity is least expected. It is but good business for Packard to share its prosperity with those who buy its products. Therefore the new prices.

There has been no change in quality. Each car is identical with those Packard has been building. The new prices continue to include complete custom equipment and unlimited paint and upholstery options costing hundreds of dollars extra on many other cars. This, together with today's price reductions, gives the Packard Eight an important first cost advantage.

The lower prices make it possible for many additional thousands to step up to the possession of America's finest and most modern car.

We shall be pleased to put this great car into your hands for a demonstration and in return ask only the privilege of telling you what your present car is worth in part payment. Any Packard may be purchased on our payment plan.

(Prices do not include freight and Government tax)

RUSSO-JAPANESE RAPPROCHEMENT ON CHINA NEAR

Deal Involves Railways in Manchuria.

(Copyright, 1928, by The New York Times.)
MOSCOW, Jan. 2.—There are unmistakable indications of a further Russo-Japanese rapprochement, despite the denial of Viscount Goto, ex-mayor of Tokyo, who is now visiting here, that he has any specific mission. He is being treated with the highest regard by the soviet authorities and there are daily paragraphs of his doings in the soviet press.

The Kuhara commercial mission, which recently stayed a fortnight in Moscow on its way to Berlin, was also treated practically as a diplomatic body.

There is reason to believe that Viscount Goto is technically correct in stating he has no mission, but that he is likely to broach questions of mutual interest to Russia and Japan should he judge the atmosphere to be favorable. The most important is, doubtless, regarding the question of the section of the Chinese Eastern railway from Harbin to Changchun.

Face Chinese Opposition.
The Japanese do not want to retrace the line to the European standard gauge, but to place standard gauge rails beside the existing track, which unique engineering feat would be possible in such a flat country, devoid as it is of grades and tunnels.

The project naturally would arouse the opposition of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, who has his own plan for paralleling the Chinese Eastern and South Manchuria railroads by a Chinese system running to a new port 150 miles north of Tientsin, which is being financed by a British group to the extent of $15,000,000. With this support Marshal Chang ignored Japanese protests against the parallel lines now building, and the Chinese have blocked, it is understood here, an American loan to the Japanese owned Manchurian railway.

Would End Rate War.
The Japanese and Russians are carrying on a rate war for the purpose of directing traffic to Dairen and Vladivostok respectively, but the former evidently wish to arrange co-operation in view of anticipated Chinese competition. In the light of these facts Viscount Goto's insistence upon the desirability of co-operation among the United States, Japan and Russia has obvious significance.

Latest Ideas in Furniture Shown at Exhibit Today

The latest ideas in furniture, reproductions of designs of the master craftsmen of England, France, and America will be exhibited at the Eighth Chicago Furniture market which opens today at the American Furniture Mart at 666 Lake Shore drive. More than 1,000 dealers and buyers are expected in the city during the next three weeks to inspect the offerings of the more than 800 manufacturers.

NEWEST SENATOR REFUSES TO GIVE PLEDGE TO G. O. P.

East Las Vegas, N. M., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Senator Bronson Cutting, Independent Republican, who is en route to Washington as the appointee of Gov. R. C. Dillon to succeed the late Senator A. A. Jones of New Mexico, said here today he had not decided how he would align himself in the senate.

"I cannot make any definite pledges," Senator Cutting said. "I do not know the situation in Washington. You have heard it said there is a strategic position for the senator from New Mexico, but you also know that in strategy there must be politics and maneuvering and the old time senators are at a great advantage in that."

New Mexico seems to have been the stepchild of the nation for 65 years. The governors sent here were trouble makers that the east wanted to be rid of and they did not trouble themselves to understand or aid the territory. It is now up to the federal government to make up in the next few years for the neglect shown New Mexico in the past 65 years.

MONKEY GLANDS FAIL TO REBUILD MEN, QUIZ SHOWS

Freiburg, Germany, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The rejuvenating method of Dr. Serge Voronoff by the transplantation of monkey glands was stated to be impracticable in a report by Dr. Hoffmeister, first assistant to Prof. Erich Lexer, chief of the University hospital, after an investigation carried out at the suggestion of German scientific circles.

A number of gland transplantations from monkeys to men and other animals were carried out during the investigation. Several weeks after the operations, it was stated, the glands were found by the naked eye or microscopically either to have been absorbed by the tissues or to have been atrophied beyond their power of function. Dr. Hoffmeister said that in some cases a temporary apparent rejuvenation followed the operation, but this was followed by a reaction in the form of rapid decay or the complete cessation of all vitality.

There is reason to believe that Viscount Goto is technically correct in stating he has no mission, but that he is likely to broach questions of mutual interest to Russia and Japan should he judge the atmosphere to be favorable. The most important is, doubtless, regarding the question of the section of the Chinese Eastern railway from Harbin to Changchun.

The project naturally would arouse the opposition of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, who has his own plan for paralleling the Chinese Eastern and South Manchuria railroads by a Chinese system running to a new port 150 miles north of Tientsin, which is being financed by a British group to the extent of $15,000,000. With this support Marshal Chang ignored Japanese protests against the parallel lines now building, and the Chinese have blocked, it is understood here, an American loan to the Japanese owned Manchurian railway.

Would End Rate War.
The Japanese and Russians are carrying on a rate war for the purpose of directing traffic to Dairen and Vladivostok respectively, but the former evidently wish to arrange co-operation in view of anticipated Chinese competition. In the light of these facts Viscount Goto's insistence upon the desirability of co-operation among the United States, Japan and Russia has obvious significance.

HUNGARY SEIZES GUNS FROM ITALY AND CAUSES ROW

Arms Slipped Across the Austrian Border.

BY LARRY RUE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
VIENNA, Jan. 2.—Austria is agitated tonight following the discovery by an Austrian customs official at St. Gotthard, on the Hungarian border, of five cartloads of machine gun parts, allegedly "machine parts," supposedly in transit from Verona, Italy, to Nova Mesto, Czechoslovakia. Prague, officially announces the cars were not destined for Czechoslovakia. The discovery nearly provoked an international incident as the cars had crossed Hungarian territory where the Austrian customs officials pursued them, demanding that they be returned. The Hungarians refused. Frontier towns are excited at the news of demonstrations at Graz, where people are parading in the streets and demanding that Hungary forfeit the war materials. The spokesman of the Austrian foreign office said no diplomatic move is planned as "the Austrian officials made two mistakes, first in failing to make a proper inspection at Arnoldstein, on the Italian frontier, and then by requesting the cars to return after they left the country, which the customs men had no right to do." The peace treaties prohibit the transport through or importation of arms into Austria or Hungary without special permission from the allies.

The Hungarian government tonight confirmed the report of the cartloads of machine guns crossing the border. An official said the guns were destined for Poland, and as it is not permissible to transport arms through Hungary without special permission, the cars are being held by the government.

FIGHT HURRICANE AT SEA 2 DAYS TO SAVE SHIP'S CREW

PLYMOUTH, England, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The story of two days' heroic fight to save the crew of the Newfoundland schooner Ena A. Moulton was told today when the American tanker Dartford arrived with the six members of the crew of the schooner rescued Dec. 19 in mid-ocean.

A terrific storm was raging when the Dartford's commander, Capt. Kilmer, responded to distress signals from the schooner. The latter vessel was waterlogged and her canvas had been blown to ribbons, while the crew was exhausted by long hours at the pumps. Lines from the Dartford heaved aboard the helpless schooner, were snapped three times and the vessels were torn apart, but the Dartford returned again and again dauntlessly to her life saving task. The American ship fought huge waves and was lashed by a hurricane for thirty-seven hours until the night of Dec. 19, when the schooner's crew finally was hauled aboard. Before departing from the derelict, the Dartford set the Ena A. Moulton ablaze to prevent her becoming a danger to navigation.

HOME BUILDING FIGURES REVEAL GROWTH OF CITY

How Chicago has grown in the last year was indicated yesterday in figures compiled by Frederick Rex, city librarian, showing that 1,588 residences, 1,446 apartment buildings, 137 combination store and apartment buildings, and 118 straight store buildings were erected at a cost of $88,299,500 during the first six months of 1927. The city librarian last October estimated that the city's population was 2,741,510, being his figures on the number of registered voters. His estimate of the city's growth, based on the building activity during the first half of last year, is compiled by wards. Thus he showed that the most new residence homes were built in the 19th ward—359, while the 41st came next with 317 homes, and 295 citizens of the 26th ward built new homes, and 208 were put up in the 18th ward. The wards in which there was the least building activity for the six months period were the 3d, the 26th, and the 36th. John D. Riley of the city map department said the city is now 298.61 square miles in area, 3.66 square miles having been added in 1927 by annexation.

COST OF MOVING PIPES IN SUBWAY MAY FALL ON CITY

Loophole in Council Bill for Utility Concerns.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The incidental cost, which is supposed to be most troublesome in the construction of a subway, is the removal and relocation of the pipes, wires, conduits, and other utility properties in the way. This subject has been discussed at six or seven meetings of the council local transportation committee in the last year, but at none of those meetings was it estimated whether the cost would be $500,000 or $5,000,000, or more.

If it is a small amount, it is unimportant in the spending of $50,000,000 for a subway, but, if large, there might be serious protests against making that cost a part of the aggregate expenditures for subways.

Position Is Changed.

Before the last legislature the aldermen and city officials took one position; now they have changed to another.

To the general assembly the companies presented a bill granting power to the city to compel the utilities to remove their pipes and wires from the path of a subway and relocate them at places designated by the city. To this point that enabling legislation was approved by the aldermen. But the bill also provided that if any utility failed to remove and relocate its property the city would bear the expense of doing it, as a part of the cost of subway construction, and that the city might reimburse itself from lessees of subway space in rentals or otherwise. To this the aldermen strenuously objected. They prevailed upon the house committee considering the bill to strike out this latter part of the enabling legislation.

Cost Borne by Each.

The aldermen claimed that the city should bear the cost of removing its sewers and water mains. They asserted that it was only equitable that the gas company should pay for removing and relocating its pipes, the Edison company its wires and conduits, the phone company its wires and cables, and likewise for the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies and all others. They cited the fact that one corporation counsel after another has expressed the opinion that each utility was legally liable for such costs. In addition they pointed out a recent Supreme court decision in which it is asserted that a utility must bear such cost.

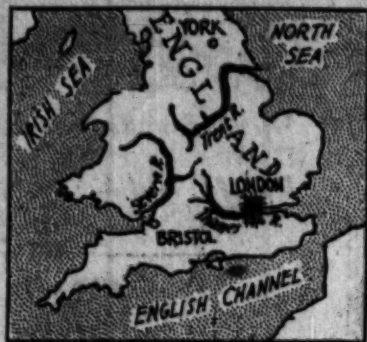

Now the aldermen and corporation counsel have written their own draft for power relating to this same subject. It is a verbatim copy of the companies' bill, with certain additions, which make it much more objectionable to the aldermanic viewpoint of eight months ago, than was the companies' bill then. The aldermanic bill now includes that part of the companies' bill, which the aldermen had a committee of the legislature kick out.

Bill Puts Cost on City.

First, the aldermanic bill confers power upon the city to compel the utilities to remove their property from the path of subway construction and that the city may assume the cost of the removal and relocation and assess it against private property holders, especially benefited by a subway, as a special benefit.

But if the utilities refuse to remove their own property, then the city assumes the obligations and acquires the powers, enumerated in the companies'

FLOODS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Jan. 2.—After the snow came floods. The great thaw struck England last night and today reports from all districts state that rivers have overflowed their banks and immense damage is being done. In the Thames valley near London many towns and villages are isolated and roads have been washed out. London itself benefited by the rapid thaw, which in one night cleared the streets.

Snow Ties Up Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PARIS, Jan. 2.—Traffic in Paris was tied up two hours tonight by a snowstorm of unprecedented violence, which laid a three inch blanket of slush in the streets. All surface transportation facilities were paralyzed, causing traffic jams and mob scenes in the subways, where everybody from shivering little midnights to be-furred shoppers in the opera quarter rushed for shelter.

bill. If that scheme does not work out, then the aldermanic bill says frankly "that the entire cost of the same may be borne by the city." Under this bill, the license fees from the retail grocers of Chicago can be used to relocate the wires of the Western Union Telegraph company, or general taxes on all property owners can be used to relieve the gas company of the expense of moving. The transportation companies in their bill never asked for such a sweeping concession. No explanation has been offered for this new position of the aldermen.

Obstructions Overlooked.

In some spots the freight bores of the Chicago Tunnel company will interfere with subway construction, according to the investigating engineers, but this utility is not described in the bill. At other spots the pneumatic tubes of the City News bureau, through which is dispatched news copy to all the newspapers, are said to be in the way of certain subway proposals, but those are not described nor referred to specifically in the bill.

All the provisions relating to the removal and relocation of utility property referred to are in the so-called bill permitting the construction of subways by special assessments. Mayor Thompson has said that the city does not need this bill because he believes the city has the power now to build subways by special assessments. These assessments, the mayor has been advised, can be spread over a period of 20 years, and therefore, in his opinion, make the special assessment power practicable to utilize. The transit companies believe the city needs more or clearer powers to build subways by special assessments, or the incidental powers to be conferred by this bill are more important than its prominently displayed provisions.

One of those incidental powers relates to the cost of removing and relocating utility property. Many residents of outlying districts have vigorously protested against spending all the city's $50,000,000 transit fund for subway construction in the loop. They would have more reason, in equity, to protest against spending taxes for removing utility property in the lane of subway.

CHAMPION OF THE WORLD!

In 1927 The Chicago Tribune carried more lines of advertising than any other publication on earth. In Chicago The Tribune led the second newspaper by Ten Million Lines.

THE TOP-NOTCHERS make their own "breaks"—it takes a working head as well as a fighting heart to stay in the first flight in this day of competitive crowding. The penalties of leadership are often as great as the prizes—to stay out in front requires a measure of merit beyond dispute.

The Chicago Tribune has won its title as advertising champion of the world by virtue of its singular supremacy among advertising media. It has been awarded this accolade by the common consent of the greatest number of investors in public good will—the advertisers of America. No other newspaper in the United States has been commissioned to carry so many selling messages to such a great number of potential buyers.

The Tribune's triumphant total for 1927

All over the country other great newspapers have challenged the position of the World's Greatest Newspaper—sought to exceed its advertising lineage even though they could not equal its commanding circulation.

There are newspapers in the world which have larger circulations than The Chicago Tribune. England, France and Japan have such papers but their advertising lineage cannot be compared to The Tribune's giant total.

There are national magazines which surpass The Tribune in number of readers, but during the first eleven months of 1927 The Tribune printed more than double the millions of advertising which appeared in the leading national magazine. Measured by any conclusive criterion of championship, The Tribune stands alone.

And, obviously, The Tribune is supreme in Chicago

Champion of the world means champion of Chicago too! In 1927 The Tribune led its nearest contender by ten million lines of advertising. And The Tribune is first in circulation as it is in lineage—its daily city and suburban circulation alone is greater than the total circulation of any other Chicago daily. Its Sunday circulation in city and suburbs is nearly a quarter of a million greater than the city and suburban circulation of any other Chicago paper, daily or Sunday.

The Tribune is the advertising champion of the world because it is the dominant newspaper in the world's richest market. The calibre of The Tribune's leadership is due to the character of its readers—their intelligence, purchasing power, and responsiveness to Tribune advertising. The conservation of net profits today lies in the cultivation of the right prospects in the right market and The Tribune is indisputably supreme in its access to the great Chicago territory with its annual spending power of sixteen billion dollars. For profit protection in 1928, concentrate in The Tribune.

W-G-N RADIO PROGRAM

Joe Cook
on W-G-N Tonight!

Joe Cook, funniest of the funny men, the boy who "wants" to be a comedian, will be the headline of tonight's Eveready Hour, which comes to radio listeners over The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake Hotel between 8 and 9 o'clock. A feature which Joe is to present is a brand new circus skit, especially written for the Eveready Hour. Then there will be his baseball story, and a rendition of that celebrated folk-song "Frankie and Johnny," as rewritten by himself and Bugs Baer. The big show starts at 8 o'clock!

The Clarion Quartet
Tonight, 10:30

Of great musical worth, yet a fear of greater interest to radio listeners, was a five sectioned B minor quartet played by the Neo-Russian String quartet, from New York through KTYW, 8 to 9:30, a lovely and played with a finish that reminded one of the famous Florentine string quartet.

In harmony with the above-mentioned number was Henry Bellinger's Phantom Violin recital from W-G-N, 9:30 to 10.

WLS was silent last evening because of the death of Charles Kittle, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., owners of this station. I found WSM, Nashville, coming in like a local station. Further dialing brought in WCY, Schenectady, and WLW, Cincinnati clearly, and I was reminded of silent night.

Tomorrow evening WESH from 9:30 to 10:30 will broadcast Will Rogers, Fred Astaire, and Paul Whiteman, all in different cities.

There is a half hour talk by Arthur Oat Anderson from WMAQ on Monday evenings at 7:30, giving an advance notice of musical events in Chicago. This must be appreciated by concert going audiences. The artist, time of the recital, and highlights of the program are supplied.

COLONY FOUND DEAD AT STUDIO

Fuller McCanta, 40, an artist, proprietor of the north side arts colony organization known as the Black Cats club, in the rear of 2236 East Ontario, was found dead in bed in his studio quarters on the second floor there late last night, apparently the victim of a New Year's celebration.

Gravely enough, a large black cat, pet of the artist, lay snuggled between his knees when his body was discovered by Mrs. Gertrude Fenimore, 2857 Burlington street, who called at the studio to see McCanta. McCanta's body lay on the bed fully clothed. Police were led to believe that he died from heart disease. Mrs. Fenimore told the police that at the New Year's party McCanta and a man named Richard Vail had a fight, but apparently neither was hurt, and the party continued.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Rev. J. B. Graupner

Funeral services for the Rev. J. B. Graupner, retired Lutheran minister, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Kammerer chapel, 2056 West Chicago avenue. The Rev. Mr. Graupner was 66 when he died Sunday at the home of his son, William, in Des Plaines. Besides the son he is survived by his widow, Mary, and a daughter, Mrs. Minnie Behm.

Chamlee Radio Songs Too Few to Suit Elmer

But Symphony Orchestra Makes Up for It.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Last evening's radio entertainment was satisfactory in general, and of special interest in several particulars, the particulars being:

First, the grand opera celebrity, Mario Chamlee, tenor, on the New York 8:30 to 9:30 W-G-N orchestral concert. Mr. Chamlee's voice is so clear and ringing, and his enunciation is so distinct that it seemed a pity that he figured so sparingly on this program. However, the symphony orchestra, sharing honors with him, was so good that it became a joint recital of Mr. Chamlee and the orchestra.

Of great musical worth, yet a fear of greater interest to radio listeners, was a five sectioned B minor quartet played by the Neo-Russian String quartet, from New York through KTYW, 8 to 9:30, a lovely and played with a finish that reminded one of the famous Florentine string quartet.

STEALS $100 DOG SHE CONVINCES KEEPER IS HERS

An ingenious method was used by a pretty young woman, wearing a blue hat and fur coat, to steal a pedigreed Boston bulldog yesterday from Fred Paul, dog fancier, with kennels at 4610 North Clark street.

Paul told the Townhall police that the young woman appeared at his kennels and demanded from the attendant, Gus Dunneberg, a dog which she claimed had been left in the kennels. She stepped to a telephone booth and apparently put in a call to Paul's home, 1505 Wilson avenue, seeking permission to take out the pet.

Dunneberg, convinced of the ownership, allowed the young woman to take away the dog she said was hers. It belonged to another customer and is valued at $100.

YOUTH DANCES TO FREEDOM AT POLICE SHOWUP

Two hundred holdup victims gathered for a "showup" of suspects at the Des Plaines street station last night saw Ned Henderson, a colored boy of 20, dance his way to freedom. Chief of Detectives William E. O'Connor asked Henderson his occupation. The youth replied he was a professional dancer.

"All right," said the hard-boiled chief, "prove it—dance your way out." Henderson started to dance. Then he danced. A coin was tossed on the floor. A shower of other coins followed. After five minutes Chief O'Connor stopped the boy.

"O. K.," he said, "you win!" and Henderson walked out of the station with a merry clinking in his pocket.

USES POISON FOR FLOUR; HER ERROR
KILLS HUSBAND

After many years of cooking for her husband, Benjamin, 64, Mrs. Fanny Feltowich of 1841 South Homestead avenue made a mistake yesterday afternoon in preparing the evening meal that cost him his life. She told Lawndale police that she used part of the contents of a can of cockroach powder, which she mistook for flour, in stuffing some sausages. Feltowich died shortly after the arrival of Dr. J. D. Halpert, 1118 Independence boulevard, who was called to the home. Mrs. Feltowich became hysterical and required medical treatment after she discovered her fatal error.

If you have tried "everything" for your pimples, blackheads or eczema and want to know what it is to get something that really works—then let your skin know the magic touch of sulphur combined with menthol. Nothing more amazing than how sulphur clears the skin—and as sulphur clears, menthol heals. As combined in Rowles Mentho Sulphur, the two make an astonishing skin corrective and builder. Pimples dry up overnight. Blackheads and coarse pores vanish in a few days. And as for eczema—even the most burning or itching case soon yields. Relief from the burning or itching follows immediately upon application.

Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

Zero Blasts Turn Society's Fancy to the Florida Coasts

The coconut palms in Florida may seem a particularly irrelevant topic for a society column, but their state of well-being is a question of moment among the smart Chicagoans who are southward bound in January. The tornado of two years ago reduced the proud palm-trees to a sad state of helplessness, and only this year have they recovered their former grandeur of foliage.

Whether or not they are responsible for the prospective increased immigration to Florida havens of rest and recuperation is not determined, but the interesting prospect that there will be more Chicagoans in Florida this year is a fact.

The George A. McKillops, the Rush Clark Butlers, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jekel Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, the Joy Mortons, and the Charles A. Klotz family are among those who plan to be in Palm Beach by the latter part of this month.

Miss Joan Stuart's house party at Charlotte, Mich., including Miss Louise Tyler, Miss Emily Otis, Clymer Stevens, Bill Lunderbach, Adlai Stevenson, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Gordon Ellis, had a holiday in Florida this year when they departed by special car after their three days' outing. The weather conditions had been adverse to the carrying out of the program, but the party had arranged to leave on a skiffing on Mount Michigan and stayed on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix, where the stock farm of Mr. Robert Stuart, Miss Stuart's grandmother, is situated. The farm was a hobby of Mr. Stuart's before his death two years ago. One of the adventures of the party was their discovery that the Ironton ferry boat was down in the ice, necessitating their landing on the shore and making the crossing by foot. A dog race along the new banked ravines of Mount Mich., where the huskies of the region were matched against the heterogeneous breeds the villagers have been raising since the revival of the ancient sport, was an event of yesterday, with Miss Stuart awarding the prize to the winning outfit.

Miss Edward A. Leight gave a dinner and the opera party last night for Princess Alexia Obolensky of Paris, who arrived yesterday to be in Chicago at the end of the week. Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum and Mrs. Wanni-Maroux were also guests of Mrs. Leight. Princess Obolensky is one of the members of the old regime of Russia. Princess Michael Contakoussis is another of the princess' friends in Chicago.

The New Year's subscription dance, the last affair on the holiday program for the school crowd, took place at the Fortnightly last night. Miss Robert Burham gave a dinner party for her daughter before the affair, which was sponsored by a committee of prominent women.

Light is Father's and Son's night at the Racquet club. There is to be a supper party, and afterward Maj. Z. P. Pelt of the French Foreign Legion is to give a talk on some phase of the war that will appeal to both the old and young boys. Howard Gillette is in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines of Evanston are to return today from Dayton, O., where they have been spending the New Year's week-end with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howell H. Howard, and the latter two youngsters. The young Howards, who apparently spend all of their winter lives on the lake, have their home in the James C. Moseley cottage at Alton, Ill., and plan to depart soon to be there for the late winter season. Mr. Howard is to take his string of polo mares and plans to participate in the polo matches.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman Hay of Winnetka are to depart about the middle of this month to take a Mediterranean cruise.

Mrs. Edward Cressett of 1200 Lake Drive is spending the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Haines in Pasadena, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, who have been staying at the Drake hotel since they gave up their residence, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson of the Ambassador are to depart Thursday for a Mediterranean cruise, returning late in April.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grassell and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter are to give a supper dance for the Margaret Russell and Miss Ruth Hunter at the Drake this evening.

Stone Carving New Contests at Salon for the Hoosier Artists

Industrial art will have an important part for the first time in the exhibition to be opened by the Hoosier artists on Jan. 23 and continue to Feb. 16 in the art galleries of Marshall Field & Co. The Hoosier organization, holding its fourth annual exhibition, has been authorized by the Indiana Limestone company to offer any Indiana limestone artist or one who resides and works in that state for five years a prize of $200 for the best piece of carved limestone, which is creative work and can be embodied in any architectural design, interior or exterior. Another departure from the showings of former years is a prize of $500 for the best group of miniatures.

Burned Hoosier.

I am employed in a large office building. Not so long ago, late in the afternoon, I was agreeably surprised to have a telephone invitation to dinner from a member of the opposite sex. Wanting to "dip up" just as much as possible, I decided to wash out my face, being alone in the office. This I did, and then on the window ledge to dry.

A little later, a burst of flame appeared, and on investigating I found that some one in an office higher up had thrown out a lighted cigarette, which landed on my nose, burning me beyond recall.

As you may see, it was too late to purchase any more of the "burned" and make excuses—then had to wait until dark to leave the building.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

O. B. N.: LIQUID ROUGE SHOULD not be used by any one with enlarged pores. It will settle in the pores. It is applied to the dry skin with the finger tips. It is supposed to be the most natural looking color, and lasts longer than the dry rouge.

MRS. T. H.: THE DARK SKINNED woman must be very careful in the selection of her powder. She should choose powder of a deep shade and have her rouge of a dull red.

An Evening Wrap for Southern Wear

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—From all indications the southern lady may look like the borderland, for never before in history were there so many bordered effects going on in coat materials. Among the newest of these are very stunning white broadcloths with an inwoven border of flowers or peacock motifs done in some such brilliant tone as red. These are exceedingly effective for the separate coat of resort destiny and so, too, are many of the new kashas which display borders in gold or colored stitching.

Coat materials of another genre place much emphasis upon pastel tints, many of which show a preference for the diamond pattern. The favorite trimming for these lovely tweeds, as well as for other coats of light weight woolen, is either white or beige fox. This fur is often allotted in the form of separate scarf. Another favorite fur in Palm Beach circles is beige wolf.

In the evening wrap white and beige fox enjoy the same popularity as in the day. The wrap is often allotted in a model of transparent velvet in some tone of green.

Our model today, a delightful evening wrap for southern wear, is true to the tradition. This pelt in snowy white sets off a cape of pale pink crepe Elizabeth, which is otherwise contrasted with transparent velvet in the present mode is borne out here, not by an interwoven effect, but by applied pieces of the velvet bordering the garment. A seam in the wrap provides the ever fashionable bloused back effect, relieved by a group of fine tucks directly under the fur collar.

Hold the Head Erect and the Result Will Be a Perfect Posture

by Corinne Lowe

If you have a lovely throat line your carriage is almost sure to be perfect. Such is the influence of the carriage of the head. It goes without saying that if one carries her head well she automatically carries her body well. Try carrying your head with chin erect and see if you can let your shoulders slump and your chest fall. It is impossible.

A tremendous amount of money spent for bolstering up that neck line would be saved if women understood the connection between the young throat and an upright carriage. In fact, the whole influence of youth is felt, no matter how old the woman is. The head, with its crown, is the favorite to add the years the role may call for. The drooping posture is depended upon to create the illusion of age far more than makeup.

The trouble with necks is that the muscles aren't made to work sufficiently during the average woman's career. They're not made to reach for food as a giraffe's has to. Not many of them are made to chin—the bar, I mean. So about the only thing you can do with them is to make the muscles firm and strong by forcing them to hold the head up.

And it is not only when standing that one's head needs to be looked after for the throat line's sake. One woman threw away her two bed pillows and slept on none at all, with surprisingly pleasing results to what was becoming a good, big, fat double chin. Another habit she had was reading in bed bolstered up with her extra quota of pillows. Her chin rested away down on her neck. She stopped that and sat up to do her reading.

If the throat line isn't its old girl self, look first to the carriage of your head. It's aging you will have to massage it and exercise the neck, whether fat on thin. Exercise and massage will stir the blood to nourish and fill out hollows and wrinkles. Or the roused circulation will help break down the fatty accumulation and replace the soft tissues with firm smooth muscles.

Bend the head forward and back, stretching the neck as you bend. Then turn the head to the right and to the left. Lie on the floor and, without aid of the hands, raise the head forward on chest. After the exercises slap on cream, massage a few minutes, and then use an astringent.

Society at the Opera

The first Monday night box circle of the new year was a brilliant one and contained a sprinkling of holiday guests. Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick in the center of the horseshoe had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Burdette W. Ford, Mrs. Harold W. Richards, and Miss Jere Richards.

A few boxes away Mrs. Jacob Baur had a party which included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sherrill, Rear Admiral Bassett, Miss Lucy Martin, and William Joy of Detroit.

With Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Haeckel were Mr. and Mrs. William M. Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Roger K. Ballard.

In the Edward F. Swift box were Mr. and Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbottom, and Mr. and Mrs. Edson Mainier.

Mrs. Robert M. Lee was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Kathryn Lee, and a group of her young friends, including Miss Helen Hebert, Miss Mildred Hackl, and Miss Marguerite Parsons.

Ralph Hines was host in the Edward Hines box. His guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leander J. McCormick and Mr. and Mrs. David Adler.

With Mr. and Mrs. Nathan L. Blackman were Miss Elaine Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fowler Hopkins, and Miss Sally Hopkins.

With Mr. and Mrs. Lansing B. Warner were Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Morse and Lansing B. Warner Jr.

With Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Kelly were guests in the box shared by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. John F. L. Curtis.

Tomorrow's Soup.

In making an ox tail soup in the simplest fashion, we need add no other vegetable than onion; and if we should wish to have an ox tail consommé, we would not flour the pieces of ox tail, but we might brown them in some fat. Whether we have the thickened ox tail soup or an ox tail consommé without other vegetable seasonings than the onion, we may like to add a considerable number of other vegetables finally to get the ever attractive vegetable soup, even though a thick ox tail soup of itself has its value, especially if we want to use a starch addition.

To prepare these vegetables for the soup separately, cut them up to suit your taste, in strings, or chopped fine, or how you will, sauté them in some fat, add about a tablespoon of flour to each cup of water that is to be

WOMAN'S AND MISSES BLOOMERS

Here is a clever new design in bloomers with a shaped yoke, to give the desired snugness through the hips. Elastic is inserted through hems at the der straps. The bandeau, with shoulder straps, is gathered at the center front and closes in the back. Flesh, peach, pale yellow or orchid crepe de chine or washable silk are suggested materials.

The pattern, 3044, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 1 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

JEW, CATHOLIC, AND PROTESTANT TALK PROBLEMS

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 2.—(P)—Meeting in secret session, sixty religious educators today opened the first conference between Jews, Catholics, and Protestants, sponsored by the American Association of Religious Education. The group accepted the invitation of the school of religion at the University of Iowa to discuss interchurch problems. The University school is the only one of its kind in the United States.

With Prof. M. Willard Lampe, a Protestant, as the director, the school of religion maintains three instructors—Jew, Catholic, and another Protestant. The salaries of the instructors are paid by the respective national organizations of the three faiths, with administration expenses borne by the university.

Among delegates to the conference are: Catholic—The Rev. Mr. J. Elliott Ross, New York, and the Rev. L. C. Blakeslee, Austin, Tex.

Jewish—Rabbi Jacob Kahn of New York, Louis Mann of Chicago, and Eugene Mannheim of Des Moines.

Protestant—The Rev. John Locke of Chicago, the Rev. E. W. Blakeman of Berkeley, Cal., and O. D. Foster of Chicago, executive secretary of the American Association of Religious Education.

REMY TO START CONTEMPT CASES AGAINST THREE

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 2.—(Special.)—Recommendations of the outgoing county grand jury that contempt of court actions be started against three persons because of their alleged activity in connection with the grand jury investigation of political corruption in Indiana will be followed by Prosecutor William H. Remy. Bills of information will soon be filed in the Criminal court, Remy said tonight.

The grand jury, in its final report Saturday, recommended that contempt proceedings be brought against John H. Kiplinger, Rushville attorney and friend of United States Senator James E. Watson. Kiplinger was an attorney for D. C. Stephenson in the trial in which the former Klan dragon was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment on a murder charge. Killed the Meade, former confidante of Stephenson, and L. G. Julian of Evansville, former business associate of the Klan leader, were the other two named. Charges on which the contempt of court actions will be brought are that Miss Meade and Julian, with the connivance of Kiplinger, evaded appearance before the grand jury in December, 1926, when they were called to testify. It is alleged the two left the state to avoid going before the jury and that Kiplinger provided money for their expenses while out of the state.

The grand jury also returned an indictment Saturday against a person whose name was withheld until his arrest.

Arraignment of Clyde A. Walb, head of the Walb Construction company and chairman of the Indiana Republican committee, and Valentine Weaver, both of La Grange, and both former officers of the First National bank of La Grange, on an indictment returned Saturday by the federal grand jury charging violation of the federal banking laws, will be held before Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick in Fort Wayne. The date has not been announced.

The charges contained in the indictment grew out of the grand jury's investigation of circumstances attending the failure, last October, of the La Grange bank.

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips' Milk Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, active, yet harmless. It has been used for over 50 years by the most famous physicians everywhere. One powerful alkali neutralize at once many excesses in the stomach. It is the only one, as the doctor says, that does not hurt to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain disappears. You are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is the only one. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acidness. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of Dr. Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

1928 NOW HERE READY TO WRITE ITS OWN STORY

(Copyright, 1928, By the New York Times.)

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—The old year has ended and the New Year begun under interesting circumstances; which, however, give no particular clue to the future course of things. The last days of 1927 were marked on the one hand by continued strength in the stock market; on the other, by weekly railway traffic statements and monthly railway earnings which made the most unfavorable comparison of many years with the recent past. The year ended with easy money, yet with an increase in New York loans on stock exchange securities, which brought the outstanding total $350,000,000 above the final figure of the preceding year.

Gold Exports Continue.

Superceding at times all other incidents of the week, outpour of gold from the United States continued on a scale hardly witnessed since the first and sweeping post-war readjustment of 1919. If this movement is to continue in the early part of the new year, it will become a matter of the highest financial interest. That Europe's economic recovery greatly will be facilitated by such a redistribution process, there is no doubt whatever.

Perhaps the most impressive aspect of the financial situation as the new year begins is the indomitable hopefulness of the financial community itself. The attitude is not new in American finance and industry. Rooted belief in the country's future has been an American characteristic during many generations, and the country's financial history as a whole has undeniably justified it.

Two Sides as Usual.

It is not quite so evident that this spirit of uncompromising confidence leads to a wise and judicious view of the immediate future. Both as a matter of general principle and of actual experience, unwillingness to look at both sides of a financial or industrial situation runs the risk of converting hopefulness into illusion.

Wall street has come nearer to that position lately than is altogether agreeable for the conservative observer to contemplate.

Others Show Confidence.

Belief in what Mr. Coolidge has described as "comfortable prosperity" is as general as it is on the stock exchange, but it is tempered by the equally firm belief that there are problems even in the present financial situation which must be considered with reserve until events have solved them.

BRITISH OUTLOOK BETTER

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Jan. 2.—The latest indication of the return of British prosperity is the report today of the bankers' clearing house, revealing that the total bills and checks paid in 1927 was $4,556,541,000 (about £207,752,706,000), which is an increase of $1,112,422,000 (about £5,567,110,000) over the highest previous figure, which was in 1925.

Another record established in 1927 was the total clearings for the week ending Oct. 5, which amounted to £1,032,722,000 (about $4,168,616,000). The highest previous weekly clearings occurred in January, 1926, totaling £968,775,000 (about $4,845,975,000).

EUROPE'S WHEAT QUALITY WANES; HELPS YANKEES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

With the exception of Buenos Aires, all the leading world's markets were closed Monday, but will reopen today. A much more optimistic view regarding the future of the grain trade was noticeable among many large operators and heads of commission houses late last year, with a feeling that there would be a material enlargement in the volume of trade, and in all probability a higher range of values in the immediate future.

Barish Factors Discarded.

For nearly three months wheat futures have held within a range of 100 per bushel, and all barish factors are regarded as being discounted in the prevailing level of prices. Values in the United States are not high as compared with those abroad. March wheat in Chicago last Saturday closed 21½¢ under Liverpool, with May 15½¢ under and July 23½¢ under, the latter being at almost a full shipping difference.

There apparently is a lack of appreciation by American traders of the strong statistical position the world over, as some of the closest observers of conditions see it. The world's wheat crop is around 3,400,000,000 bu., or about 100,000,000 bu. in excess of last year, exclusive of Russia and China, but the greater part, if not all of the gain, is offset by the very poor quality of the European crop, and that of Canada. Less than 10 per cent of the latter grades contract and more wheat is required to make a barrel of flour than last year. The same also probably holds true in Europe.

Change to Be for Better.

Any change in conditions the world over would have to be for the better, as the bulls see it. The increasing pressure of the new southern hemisphere crop may result in sharp recessions at times, but they look for a gradual hardening in values, with possibly a runaway market in the spring should it become apparent that the world's import requirements are well above expectations and that the supply and demand situation is very closely adjusted. Inasmuch as over 50 per cent of the American winter wheat acreage is in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas, and there is about 25 per cent of the total for the country in an area that lacks subsoil moisture, the groundwork is being laid for a crop scare of major importance. Distribution of the corn crop this year, rather than the size promises to determine the price level, and sentiment is becoming more bullish in some quarters, although it may take several weeks for the market to turn upward. Close observers of conditions call attention to the fact that under normal conditions it is the amount of corn shipped from Illinois and Iowa that determines the price. The 1927 crop was short in both states, and while considerable grain will be shipped from Kansas and Nebraska there are no other states from which it is possible for the domestic trade to draw grain of consequence.

Dugouon, Ill., Jan. 2.—(Special.)—The First Presbyterian church of Dugouon was totally destroyed by fire yesterday, causing a loss of $2,500.

Outstanding Features of This Investment

Security comprises a Closed First Mortgage on 92-year leasehold estate on 20,080 square feet of land, 17-story, sub-basement and basement store and office building of fireproof construction, being erected, including building equipment, and earnings.

The ideal location of the property just west of State Street, the world's most active retail shopping center, makes it unusually desirable for the class of occupancy to which the building will be devoted. Property is close to Marshall Field & Co., Stevens, Mandel Bros., and other prominent "Loop" buildings.

Independent appraisal of the property, according to the lowest estimates, indicates a total value of $3,784,224, which offers a very substantial margin of security.

Occupancy of the sub-basement, basement, first and second floors and parts of third and fourth floors, by "Stop & Shop" and "Hillman's," will assure an annual rental of $206,000, from this space. Conservative independent estimates place net annual income from entire building at more than twice maximum yearly interest charges on entire issue, reduced semi-annually.

Provision is made for monthly deposits in advance with The Bank of America, Chicago, Trustee, to meet principal, interest and ground rent payments, promptly. Mortgage Title Guarantee Policy for $2,300,000 issued by Chicago Title and Trust Company. Completion of building is guaranteed to Bondholders by Greenebaum Sons Investment Company.

ALWAYS in our business we have stressed quality and not quantity. We have let it be known that Wollen-berger Bonds are good bonds.We have broadcast our record of 100% safety and we have spread the news to the far corners of the world that no one has ever had to wait a single day for payment of principal or interest on a Wollen-berger First Mortgage Real Estate Bond.Quality has been our watchword. It has been almost our only consideration. We have never tried to make a sensational increase in sales. We have never employed "high-pressure" salesmen.And why? Simply because quality automatically limits quantity of supply. We offer for sale only those investments which come up to the rigid Wollenberger standards. This is our limiting factor. We cannot—we will not—go beyond it.That we have grown steadily is due to our strict adherence to this policy and to Chicago's steady growth. With Chicago's growth has come an increasing number of investments meeting the high Wollenberger standards.While the business of Wollenberger & Co. stands at the highest point in its history today, we wish it known that ours is a quality and not a quantity business.

Hogs scored further gains as the new year opened, top advancing to $8.90, with general average 10c higher at $8.70, the latter standing highest in over a month and 75c above the low point in 1927 established about three weeks ago.

Outsiders bought freely, shipping about 13,000 and with smaller houses active operators, only 6,000 were left at the close. Larger packers obtained comparatively small purchases. Storms curtailed supplies at all points, adding to the strength early. An advance estimate of 48,000 for today, however, showed up trading some at the extreme close.

Cattle prices held firm in all classes, arrivals at 13,000 being the smallest for Monday since last July. Best available averaged 1.34 lbs and sold at $17.60, with several loads up to $17.00. Bulk cleared at $12.00 @ 14.00. Cows and heifers were fewer in numbers and ruled strong to 25c higher. Bulls advanced fully 25c, selling at the highest prices since 1920. Calves advanced 25c.

Lamb Market Stronger.
Lambs shared in the strength noted in other branches of the live stock trade, with top kinds 10c to 15c higher. Choice fed westerns reached $12.75, against $11.50 at the close of last week. Most light and handy weights brought $12.00 to $12.50, with medium and heavy at $11.75 to $12.50. Aged and yearling sheep were scarce and steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 13,000 cattle, 48,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 14,000 cattle, 51,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep the previous Tuesday and 11,614 cattle, 39,916 hogs, and 17,699 sheep a year ago.

FARM AND GARDEN

The cow and hen owner of Illinois is going to be his own butter and egg man if proposed plans of the farm bureau in this state are carried out.

There are bureau organizations in ninety-four counties and it is the 1928 goal of the Illinois Agricultural Association, the state farm bureau of Illinois, to organize the collective bargaining power of the farmers who produce $75,000,000 worth of poultry, eggs, and cream each year.

Frank A. Gouger, produce marketing specialist of the association, says that with cooperative produce shipping associations already operating in nine counties, and organization work in progress in nine others, the agricultural organization is hopeful that the economic and advantages of the movement may be carried to producers all over the state within the next few years.

Investigation by Mr. Gouger shows that the average Illinois farmer sells about $500 worth of poultry, butter, and eggs in a year, and because of the fact that one farmer's production is relatively small, little attention has been paid to the possibilities in this phase of cooperative marketing.

He says one farmer's shipping association can handle 75,000 pounds of butter, 1,000 cases of eggs, and 75,000 pounds of live poultry annually with ease. Mr. Gouger finds that under existing conditions there are from three to eight or ten private buyers and shippers in many small towns handling collectively less than this volume at high overhead expense.

Advantages of the cooperative plan, according to this specialist, are accurate weights made by the farmer's own representative, payment on the basis of quality which stimulates production of higher quality products, collective bargaining power by selling to the highest bidder, and education of members in business methods and marketing.

EVANSTON ARRESTS INCREASE.
Arrests in Evanston increased 10 per cent in 1927 over 1926, according to James Gleason, secretary of the police department. The arrests for 1927 totaled 5,285, while those for 1926 were 4,802.

Financial Houses Announce Promotions as Year Starts

One financial house announced the promotion of four men to vice presidencies and two other houses announced new partners yesterday. Walter W. Crawford, for eleven years with Alfred L. Baker & Co., was admitted to partnership in the firm and Allan S. Noyes was made a partner in David A. Noyes & Co. George Remond, J. Grant Forbes, Jean Monnet, and Lewis F. Sheldon were elected vice presidents of Blair & Co.

Canadian Business Gained During 1927, Data Reveals

OTTAWA, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Canadian business reached a physical volume at the close of 1927, 48 per cent larger than it reached in 1926, an index published by the dominion bureau of statistics revealed today. Business at the close of the year, however, was somewhat below the high point reached in the second quarter. The feature of the year was the rapid advance in industrial stock prices, reflecting an easy money situation.

FRANCE T

IN PEACE

Seeks to E

Brind Pr

[Chicago Tribune Photo.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Secretary of State Kellogg today made public the French government's proposal to the French government that France and the United States join in an effort to secure all the principles of the League of Nations as a basis for the settlement of international disputes.

The note, which is said to be that of Prime Minister Briand, makes it clear that the French government could not consider the Briand proposal if it were merely to the United States.

It was stated that the French government would not enter into this government new under any circumstances.

To Arbitrate
The announcement of a note sent by the French government which contained the Briand proposal, and a proposed separate convention extending the 1908 convention which was signed in 1908.

While the draft of a treaty to outlaw war is actually in today's news, it is revealed that the two powers also are in the name of peoples that they could not consider the Briand proposal if it were merely to the United States.

"I have given the matter serious consideration to this proposal," Secretary Kellogg said in his reply to the French proposal, "and I am sure that the American people will support the French proposal."

Impressive
"It has occurred to governments, instead of themselves with bills of the nature suggested might make a more stable world peace by joining to obtain the adherence of the principal powers of the world to a treaty renouncing war as a national policy."
